

Ickes' Refusal of Grant
For New York Bridge
Laid to Recent Feud

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of speculation as to why Secretary of the Interior Ickes, branded as a fighter for the people, should be in the weird position of gunning for Robert Moses, New York Park Commissioner, also branded as a fighter for the people.

The inside, though carefully guarded, fact is that Ickes is merely acting as "trigger man." It was he who issued the order, in effect, that Mayor LaGuardia could get no more PWA money for New York's Triborough Bridge or for other Public Works projects until Park Commissioner Bob Moses was removed.

Actually, the order came from the White House. For although the President usually is the friendliest person in the world, he happens to be nursing a vendetta against Bob Moses which not only is vitriolic but of long standing.

Bank Investigator

There was a day when Roosevelt, then Governor of New York, appointed Moses on a commission to investigate the failure of the City Trust Company. This was on the recommendation of Herbert Lehman.

Also, he reported that the Bank of United States was in a bad way, recommended that something be done about it. Roosevelt indicated that he would appoint Moses on a new legislative commission to clean up the entire banking situation.

But about that time the Roosevelt feud with Al Smith reached a climax. Moses sided with Al, had been one of his closest advisers. Bob is a sort of bill in a china-shop, fearless, uncontrollable, irrepressible regarding whose toes he steps on.

Roosevelt didn't like him and apparently could not forgive him. Basil O'Connor, Roosevelt's law partner, came to Moses and asked if he would not decline appointment on the banking commission if the Governor made the gesture of offering it. Moses told him where to get off.

So the appointment never came. Henry Pollak was appointed instead—and later indicted. The program Moses outlined was not carried out. As he predicted, the Bank of United States crashed.

Still the vendetta continues. LaGuardia will get no more PWA money until Moses is removed as Park Commissioner.

And the irony of it is that Bob Moses found Al Smith lined up against him, supporting Roosevelt's candidate, Governor Lehman, in the last New York campaign.

Huey Laugh

Best recent laugh in Washington was over the report that Huey Long had removed a Louisiana road official with the explanation that he, Huey, had taken the pledge himself and state officials should live up to it.

Lucky Lunchers

Because they can eat for ten minutes longer than other federal workers, employees of the Government Printing Office are extremely grateful to Mrs. Roosevelt.

It happened through a mistake. The First Lady, due to dedicate the Mother's Day stamp at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, got her buildings mixed and showed up instead at the Government Printing Office.

It was 11:30. The first shift were pouring out for lunch. Mrs. Roosevelt got into the tide, was greeted and almost knocked over. She asked a girl why they were hurrying.

"We've got to be back in half an hour and the cafeteria's crowded." Later, Mrs. Roosevelt talked the matter over with George H. Carter, then Public Printer. Shortly, an announcement was circulated giving all workers 40 instead of 30 minutes for lunch.

THREE CENTS

MANY DETAILS OF SALES TAX ARE DISCUSSED

60 Attend Chamber of Commerce Meeting Take Part In Forum

ELECT DIRECTORS

Many Provisions Subject
To Alteration

From the standpoint of attendance, interest, enthusiasm and good-fellowship, the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held Thursday night was one of the most successful in the history of the organization. Sixty members and guests enjoyed the splendid dinner at Hanley's tearoom, following which the business session was held.

H. T. Geissinger, a representative of the state tax commission, was the speaker of the evening and his explanation of the sales tax law was of great interest to the many retailers present. Mr. Geissinger who was introduced by President Reed Shafer, outlined the operation of the law in a general way in his preliminary remarks and then turned the meeting into an open forum in order that questions of interest locally might be asked and answered. The speaker covered all phases of the sales tax law and answered many questions propounded by retailers.

The speaker stated that January 14 has been set as the deadline for merchants to secure vendors' licenses, and that the law will become operative on January 28. The delay has been due to the enormous amount of printing required for the tax commission to arrange for the collection of taxes, issuing licenses, printing the stamps, and completing the organization work in each county of the state. The commission is making every effort to see that the new law will work as smoothly as possible from the beginning, and is rendering all assistance possible to retailers.

QUESTIONS ASKED
The questions brought out many points of interest but the speaker pointed out that all the regulations so far adopted by the commission are subject to change as conditions warrant. Rulings are being made according to interpretations of the law, and hearing affecting various groups bring out further discussions relative to the operation of the law and its effect on different lines of business.

Mr. Geissinger stated that in all cases of sales of tangible personal property to the consumer, the sales tax must be collected by the vendor. The tax cannot be absorbed by the dealer, but must be collected from the consumer. Sales made to political subdivisions are exempt from the tax, and no tax can be collected on the sale of merchandise purchased by mail outside the state, as the federal laws exempt interstate commerce transactions from tax.

CONDON REFUSES TO SELL STORY

$50,000 Offered For Account of His Part In Ransom Negotiations.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Dr. John F. "Jafsie" Condon refused more than $50,000 for his personal "inside" story of the Lindbergh ransom negotiations, it was revealed today by Attorney General David T. Wilentz.

Wilentz said he had personal knowledge of one offer of $50,000 for this story by "Jafsie." He also declared that Condon was offered "several" thousand of dollars yesterday for a brief account of his part in the Lindbergh case.

While disclosing this, Wilentz announced that he had a witness, John Condon, of Philadelphia, ready, at a Trenton hotel, to come here to testify that he was the only man who withdrew a book of symbols from the New York public library on or around a date in February, 1932, that Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly has intimated he will charge that Dr. Condon withdrew such a book.

REV. SHERBURNE IN M. E. PULPIT TONIGHT

At the union Week of Prayer service at the Presbyterian church Thursday evening, Rev. T. C. Harper preached a vital and timely sermon on "Launching Out Into the Deep."

The choir sang with splendid effect Shelley's beautiful anthem, "Pilgrims of the Night."

The service tonight will be at the Methodist Episcopal church with Rev. L. C. Sherburne as the preacher.

Tears Fill Her Eyes as Pickford Wins Freedom From 'Doug' Fairbanks

Mary Pickford

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 11.—Chronologically-minded observers in the lobby of the Palace hotel here today computed that Douglas Fairbanks was dancing with Lady Ashley—in whose husband's divorce suit he was named co-respondent—at the precise moment that Mary Pickford, 6,000 miles distant, won an interlocutory decree from him.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11.—Divorced from Douglas Fairbanks, almost as quietly as she married him 15 years ago, Mary Pickford today was absent from her usual Hollywood haunts.

She was in hiding, somewhere in California, traveling by automobile, with only a woman companion.

"This has been too dreadful. I have no comment," Miss Pickford said as she left the courtroom of Judge Ben B. Lindsey.

It was learned that Miss Pickford will ride constantly, until she returns to Hollywood sometime Saturday to rehearse for a radio program. It was indicated Miss Pickford and her companion, whose identity was not revealed, would not stop at any hotels during the brief trip.

DOUG NOT REPRESENTED

Fairbanks, now in Europe, was not represented in court when Miss Pickford, accompanied by her attorney, Lloyd Wright, appeared. The hearing was brief, and the questioning of the star, perfunctory.

Miss Pickford testified she had been a resident of Los Angeles—"continuously for the past three years;" that the facts contained in her divorce complaint were true and that "there is no community property and a fair and equitable" settlement had been made.

Judge Lindsey then said: "I have read the complaint. There is no need of going into the details. I will grant the divorce."

"America's Sweetheart" smiled with quivering lips and tear-dimmed eyes as she left the court room.

Thus the ideal romance of two of the greatest stars of the silver screen came to an end.

The romance of "America's Sweetheart" and her athletically inclined husband began with their almost secret marriage on March 28, 1920. The marriage was not announced until three days later. Screenland always hailed the matrimonial affairs of Doug and Mary.

WEILER GETS TAX POSITION

Local Man Called to Columbus
To Be Assigned Duties in Sales Tax Division.

E. W. "Ernie" Weiler, this city, was called to Columbus Friday to be assigned his duties under the sales tax set-up after receiving notification of his appointment.

Weiler, former Pickaway-co relief director and an active worker for the Democratic party during the fall election, did not know when he left for the tax commissioner's office just what his duties would consist of. It was believed, however, that he would be named a senior examiner.

He was certified to the tax commissioner's office by the state Democratic patronage committee.

A number of county persons are seeking jobs of less importance in the sales tax division.

Reports were current in the county today that Milton S. Cox, former Pickaway-co school superintendent, will be appointed conservation commissioner in the Davey administration. Cox is now located in State Democratic headquarters.

Mayor W. B. Cady is also an applicant for the conservation department job.

Hospital News

Avon McDonald, W. Mound-st., underwent a minor operation at Berger hospital, Friday morning.

Charles Armstrong of Salt Creek-twp, father of Deputy Sheriff Robert Armstrong, who underwent a major operation at Berger hospital Thursday and George William Groom, W. Mound-st who underwent an appendectomy recently, are reported improving.

Mrs. Carl Ritz, E. High-st., is improving in White Cross hospital following an emergency appendicitis operation recently, but will probably remain in the hospital for a week or ten days.

Lutheran Brotherhood Starts 1935 Program

The opening meeting of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood for the year 1935, was held last evening in the parish house, with a splendid attendance and a manifestation of much interest.

The newly installed president, Harry Bartholomew, was in the chair and after conducting the usual business session, called for suggestions for improvement of the brotherhood for the new year. Many ideas were advanced that will undoubtedly help the executive committee in rounding out the programs along a somewhat different line from previous years.

Action was taken to contribute $10 toward a $50.00 fund to purchase new music for the choir of the church.

The lunch committee comprised

NEW BILL FOR SOLDIER BONUS SEEN IN HOUSE

Leaders Planning Substitute
For Patman Bill to Uphold Veto

PAY PRESENT VALUE

Proposed Bill Would pay
Present Value

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Reconciled to passage of a cash bonus bill by Congress, administration leaders today were planning a substitute to be offered at the last moment in the hope of sustaining President Roosevelt's expected veto.

The substitute would provide for payment of the adjusted service compensation certificates at their present value—about 60 per cent of their face value. The cash bill, sponsored by Rep. Patman (D) of Texas, would pay the face value.

ESTIMATES DIFFER

Officials of the veterans' administration have estimated the Patman bill would cost $3,500,000,000 while the proposed substitute would cost but $2,000,000,000. Both figures have been disputed by statisticians for veterans' organizations, who declare the Patman bill would cost but $2,200,000,000 while payment of the present value would cost but a few hundred million dollars, since 97 per cent of the veterans have borrowed to the hilt on their certificates.

After a survey of sentiment in House and Senate, administration leaders were convinced they could not prevent enactment of the Patman bill in one form or another. They therefore concentrated on developing sufficient administration support to sustain Mr. Roosevelt's expected veto.

WOULD TRADE VOTES

Their present plan would call for introduction of the substitute measure, after enactment of the Patman bill and before the President vetoes it. Then, administration leaders would promise to help enact the substitute bill if Congress sustains the veto.

AVIATRIX TO TRY PACIFIC?

Husband Denies Amelia Earhart Putnam To Fly From Honolulu.

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 11.—Reports from the mainland that Amelia Earhart, famed aviatrix, would take off at daybreak today in her low-wing monoplane on a Honolulu-California flight, were denied by her husband, George Putnam.

He refused to make any announcement concerning plans for the proposed flight.

AKRON, Jan. 11.—A new speed record was hung up today for the 1100-mile Akron-to-Miami, Fla., flight.

Ray W. Brown, director of aeronautical sales for the General Tire and Rubber Co., covered the distance in his Lockheed-Vega plane in seven hours, 43 minutes, the company announced today. Brown was clocked by airport officials at Akron and again at Miami when he arrived there last night for the all-American air races.

Brown traveled at an average speed of 181.5 miles an hour to beat the former record of more than 10 hours, which has stood for two years.

FAIRFIELD-CO MAN HELD FOR MURDER

LANCASTER, Jan. 11.—Leland Kinsell, 34, of Pickerington, today had been indicted on a charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of his wife, Edna, 41, at their farm home near here November 6.

Mrs. Kinsell's death had at first been attributed by Coroner James L. Walt to a heart attack but a subsequent investigation after a still was found in the basement of the dwelling led to a partial confession by Kinsell that he and his wife had fought during a drinking party.

Kinsell was arrested by federal authorities and lodged in jail at Columbus on charges of operation of the still but he will be released to local authorities for trial on the murder charges, punishable by a life term in prison upon conviction.

Mrs. Ralph Hacker, daughter of Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, is snatched leaving the courtroom where she has been an interested spectator during her father's significant testimony from the witness stand.

Guard Alien Against Try At Own Life

Each Hand Held By Guard
Leaving Court Room; Strict Rules Govern Crowd.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—New precautions against any possible suicide attempt today surrounded Bruno Richard Hauptmann as his trial for the murder of baby Lindbergh went into the eighth day.

As he enters and leaves the courtroom now, his two burly guards take vice-like grips on his two hands. Each guard takes a hand, one walking in front, one behind, forming a sort of human manacle for the white-faced prisoner.

This precaution is to preclude any attempt by anybody in the jammed courtroom to pass a weapon or poison to Hauptmann, who, by Justice Thomas W. Trenchard's orders, is not handcuffed while in court. It also will remove any chance for the prisoner to grab one of the pistols which stick out of open holsters on the guards' hips.

MUST STAY IN SEATS

Also, Justice Trenchard has ordered that all spectators must keep their seats until after the defendant has been led from the courtroom.

OHIO BUSINESS SHOWS UPTURN

Industrial Employment 1933
Better Than 1933, Research
Bureau Shows.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Industrial employment in Ohio showed a 19.3 per cent increase in 1934, as compared to 1933, the business research bureau of the Ohio State university reported today.

It also disclosed that the millions of dollars poured into the state's trade channels by Christmas shoppers resulted in a four per cent increase throughout the state, as compared to the average November-December gain of only .1 per cent during the past five years.

The bureau's estimate of 1934 industrial employment was hidden deep in its survey for the month of December. It said:

"For all industries, Ohio showed a January-to-December gain of 19.3 per cent in 1934. Employment increase in manufacturing for the 12 months was 20.8 per cent, for non-manufacturing 10.2 per cent and for construction 2.2 per cent.

FIRST HALF OF YEAR

"The greater part of the increase in 1934 occurred in the first half of the year, when the increase from corresponding 1933 months ranged from 26.6 per cent to 48.2 per cent. During the latter half of the year, the spread between the two years was narrower but each month in 1934 was above the corresponding month of 1933."

However, the upturn in December improved and was counter-seasonal. The December increase, following a gain in November, brought employment during that month in Ohio to a point 7.1 per cent greater than a year ago, it was said.

The seven chief cities of the CHILLICOTHE, Jan. 11.—Mayor Walter Barrett, Thursday, drew up petitions for his second term. He plans to start circulating them at once.

The mayor said he would run on a platform demanding municipal light and water plants for Chillicothe.

The January Ross-co grand jury voted no indictments after its probe of election returns in Precinct 1-F where numerous irregularities were reported. The jurors, however, advocated that clearer instructions be given election officials.

"PURSE SNATCHER"

IS COLUMBUS BOY

A 10-year-old boy who gave his name as Albert Hall and said his home was in Marion had been identified today as Albert Waddell and he is a son of C. L. Waddell, 1326 Indiana-ave, Columbus.

The boy was arrested Thursday evening after he snatched the purse of Mrs. William Clark. He told the police and Juvenile Officer Frank Goff a whole series of lies. Trying to trace him in Marion, Goff learned that he was using the name and address of relatives.

Franklin-co juvenile officers were to come here for him today.

TAX PERMITS LAGGING HERE

Date Extended To "Middle of Week;" Only 300 of 700
Get Licenses.

The deadline for obtaining vendors licenses under Ohio's new three-cent sales tax today was extended from January 14 to "the middle of next week" on order of Carlton Dargusch, sales tax administrator, Deputy Auditor T. D. Krinn announced today.

All retailers in the state are affected. Dargusch warned, however, that if merchants fail to obtain a vendors license before sales tax collections start, "we will have to enforce the law." Violation of the law is punishable by a fine of from $25 to $50 for the first conviction. The tax commissioner estimated that there are about 125,000 retailers in the state who will need licenses.

He still held to the hope that actual collections could start Jan. 21 but said "I don't know, the state treasurer's office may announce another delay," Krinn said. To date only 300 licenses have been issued with 700 expected to be needed in the entire county. With 400 not yet filed Mr. Krinn issued a warning that retailers who wish to avoid extreme confusion and inconvenience should at once obtain their vendors' licenses.

The licenses cost $1 and are available at the auditor's office. Application forms can be obtained by mail from the auditor's office, and licenses also will be issued by mail upon receipt of the application form, properly filled out and accompanied by the $1 fee.

The law requires every person or company which sells tangible property for final consumption to collect the sales tax on such goods. With each sale the seller must issue a tax certificate stamp. To buy a supply of these stamps the dealer must first obtain a license.

The license is required not only of retailers in the ordinary sense of the word, but also of jobbers who sell goods for final consumption, undertakers and others selling caskets or other goods as an incident to the practice of a profession, newstands selling magazines, house-to-house canvassers, filling stations selling anything other than gasoline and many other classes of vendors.

Ignorance or oversight will be no excuse for failure to comply with the law Mr. Krinn said.

PRESIDENT'S BALL PLANNED BY MARION

There will be a president's ball held in this city on January 30, Walter J. Marion, who was chairman of the successful event last year, has announced. Details concerning the location, music, price of admission etc., have not been completed.

HUGE SUIT SETTLED

WASHINGTON C. H., Jan. 11.—The $35,000 damage suit of Charles P. Jamison against William C. Minton, The O. K. Trucking Co. and the Valley Motor Freight Co. has been filed in Fayette-co courts. A jury gave Jamison $6,000 damages but a plea for a new trial was allowed. Before the second trial could be called a compromise was reached. C. A. Leist, Circleville, represented Jamison.

Ransom Notes, Money

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police, was called to the stand today at 11:45 a. m. at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Not a single Lindbergh ransom bill has turned up since the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. Frank J. Wilson, star investigator for the United States Bureau of internal revenue declared today on the witness stand at the trial of Hauptmann, alleged murderer of the Lindbergh baby.

Wilson told of going to the Lindbergh home on March 13, 1932, and of studying the ransom notes and symbols. He revealed for the first time that the ransom money was made up twice. The first time the serial numbers were not taken down. The second time they were.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Handwriting experts take the spotlight today at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the pale-faced, phlegmatic German carpenter accused of murdering the Lindbergh baby.

This means the tempo of the trial is about to fall to a lower beat after a series of melodramatic sessions. From the stratospheric heights of emotion the trend of testimony will descend into technical and less turbulent channels.

The prosecution has passed its peak, from the standpoint of sen-

RANSOM IDENTIFIED

COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—The Lindbergh ransom was brought into the courtroom today for identification by Frank J. Wilson, government witness.

The jury and the spectators have heard Colonel Lindbergh, Mrs. Lindbergh, Betty Gow and the incomparable "Jafsie." Except for possible "surprise witnesses," the court room fans can hardly anticipate many more such thrills from the state's side.

DRAMA OF DEFENSE

But, in the offing, looms the drama of the defense. The appearance on the stand of Bruno Richard Hauptmann himself, and of his loyal wife, Anna. The day Hauptmann goes on and tells his own story may well prove to be the highlight of the entire trial.

Edward J. Reilly, the big, good-humored chief counsel for the defense and master showman, indicates he has plenty of thrills in store for the courtroom habitués. He fell down on them yesterday, however, when he failed to name—as he had promised—"two women and at least two men" as the "real kidnappers." Thursday was the day he said he would do it.

"I did not say what Thursday" was the suave Reilly's alibi today. Instead of the identity of the real kidnappers, Reilly now has court room observers conjecturing concerning the "mystery woman" he has injected in to the trial. She is Miss Hermine Koerman, of Long Island city. At Reilly's request she came from among the spectators. Yesterday while Dr. John F. Condon, was on the stand and confronted "Jafsie" for a few minutes.

Condon admitted he recalled her. He gave her two letters when she and a woman friend called at

HUNGRY, DELAWARE MAN DEVOURS CAT

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 11.—William Ellis was very hungry.

So he ate his landlord's cat!

Ellis took pains to make this astounding announcement today because, he charged, he had applied for aid to the Wilmington relief commission last December 14 and waited in vain until the pangs of hunger became too acute.

"Bollied cat makes a delicious dish," Ellis revealed. "It is a little more tasty than rabbit."

The landlord declined to comment.

VILLAGE'S TWO PUBLIC WORKS JOBS CONTINUE

Sanitary Sewer Work at Ashville Commended; Projects Are Discussed.

Work on Ashville's sanitary sewer system got under way Wednesday morning when Contractor on Main-st at the Scioto-st junction, J. Wetzel commenced operation.

Bartling and Son had previously removed the brick and concrete from Main-st as the sewer and water mains will go in the same truck. The sewer will be placed first on proper grade and then backfilled to the depth of the water mains. These will be laid on a V-shaped bench and when tested will be backfilled and brick placed in position by the water works construction contractors.

Construction work on the water-works will be well toward completion when the Main-st work is in. The most important part will be to go under the railroad tracks to the tank at the N. & W. depot.

New Baby Star

Jane Withers

Here, fans, is the newest baby star of the films—Jane Withers, just eight years old. Jane won widespread recognition and a long-term contract as a result of her work in a recent film with Shirley Temple. As a matter of fact, she may be looked upon as a real rival of Shirley herself.

plans for this work which is now in progress. Permission has also been granted to go under tracks at the Main-st crossing. With this part of the work out of the way there will yet remain the property installation. This part of the project has not kept pace with construction as the contract calls for pipe to be pushed into buildings from the mains. The machines in use work all right unless rocks are encountered, but the job will be put through even though an air compressor has to be employed.

The Downing and Hetrick contract at the pump station is moving slowly on work on the iron-reinforced plant. Pumps, motors and other machinery are on the grounds ready for installation in the two brick pump houses to be erected.

G. M. Baker and Son, subcontractors on drilling the second well, have completed that work. The new well is 69 feet deep, seven feet deeper than the first one, and gives promise of plenty of water. As soon as the screen arrives the well will be tested.

Contractor Stoner is making slow progress at the disposal plant. He has already encountered almost every imaginable obstacle possible. Bridging has been placed in the pit and a pump is constantly in use to keep the water from interfering with setting of forms for concrete.

ERECTING TANK
The Chicago Bridge and Iron Works with a crew of experienced steel workers are at work on the 100,000 gallon elevated tank. Two sections have already been erected to a height of 70 feet. The tank will be 100 feet from the ground and when placed in position it will tower about 140 feet in the air.

OUR YESTERDAYS— When Ethel Barrymore Made Debut, Starting Glamorous Stage Career

When she started career

Ethel with her brother, John Barrymore

WHEN THE STORIES of the stage are written in years to come, the name of Ethel Barrymore should figure prominently. Her first appearance was back in 1894, when she played the role of Julia in "The Rivals" at the Empire theater, in New York City. In the vernacular of the stage, she clicked in that play, and was popular for years afterwards. The daughter of Maurice Barrymore and Georgie Drew, both stars of the stage, she is the sister of John and Lionel Barrymore, well-known actors of the stage and screen.

STARS OF RADIOLAND

One of radio's most popular teams also is a domestic team, and at home it's popular, too, so say its members. George Olsen's band and the singing of his talented wife, Ethel Shutta, have featured many radio programs. Above is a smile from each.

MERCHANT VICTIM OF MONOXIDE GAS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—John Silver, 47, operator of a dry goods store at Mt. Sterling, was found dead Thursday afternoon from carbon monoxide poisoning in his garage at 1207 Whittier-st. Silver had gone to the garage at 9:30 a. m. Thursday intending to visit a grocery store for Mrs. Silver. Five hours later his wife sent a girl who lives with them to the garage to see if the car had been removed. Silver was found dead sitting at the wheel.

WAR VET DEAD

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Lewis N. Conrad, Civil War veteran, past commander of Wells post G. A. R., assistant adjutant general and quartermaster general of the Ohio department of the G. A. R., died Thursday afternoon at his home here. He joined the army in Morrow-co.

CORN YIELDS HAVE INCREASED FOLLOWING DROUGHT YEARS

A STUDY of the past reveals that corn yields have a pronounced tendency to return to normal or better following seasons of abnormally dry weather. As indicated by the shaded columns in the above graph, the production per acre after the three severe drought years of 1894, 1901, and 1930 rose from a low average of about 18.6 bushels to approximately the normal United States annual average of about 26 bushels per acre. The yield of both barley and oats also was higher in two out of the three seasons following years of unusual drought. The reasonable expectation in 1935, therefore, is normal or near normal corn yields. This fact has an important bearing on corn planting intentions for the coming spring. Material adjustments in cattle and hog numbers since a year ago have lowered corn requirements to such an extent that even the average acreage of recent years would produce, at normal yields, a burdensome surplus of corn. Under the 1935 production adjustment contract, being offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, corn-hog farmers will have an opportunity to control corn acreage in keeping with these reduced requirements and the expectation of a normal yield per acre.

MISSIONARY TO SPEAK IN CITY

Rev. C. W. Oberdorfer, a missionary to India and his two daughters, Ruth, 14, and Margaret, 11, will be guests of Trinity Lutheran church Sunday.

Both daughters, who were born and reared in India, will give talks on the "Home Life and School System in India" at the Sunday school services at 9 a. m. The talks will be followed by a discussion on India conducted by Rev. Oberdorfer. An opportunity will be given everybody attending these services to ask any questions pertaining to the work of the missionary in India.

Rev. Oberdorfer and his older daughter will conduct similar services at 10:30 a. m. at the Ringbold Lutheran church and he and his younger daughter will visit Christ Lutheran church at Lick Run at 2:30 p. m. and conduct a discussion.

Services at Trinity Lutheran church at 7 p. m. will be in charge of the India missionary, who is home on furlough visiting his parents in Lancaster.

BEVIS CONSIDERS HARVARD POSITION

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Howard L. Bevis, Martil L. Davey's choice for director of finance in his cabinet, is considering a position in an eastern university, it was reliably reported here today. Bevis is a former supreme court judge having been appointed by Governor White. The eastern offer is reported from Harvard university being the professorship of business administration.

How not TO LIGHT A BRIDGE TABLE
Think of trying to play bridge by the light of two candles, stuck in bottle tops. Yet that is the equivalent of the light in many homes—a level of illumination that will make any party drag.
For gayer, livelier parties, use an indirect portable lamp. It provides the ideal light—shadowless and glareless—for playing bridge and other games in comfort... and an equally efficient light for a quiet evening of reading. Your dealer will gladly show you the newest styles in indirect portable lamps.

PATTERN 9181

Pretty, practical and very easy to make is the house frock sketch today. The body of the design is cut in just four pieces—the back, the front and the sleeves. So you see it's just the type of frock for the busy housewife who is looking for a design that can be made quickly and that will look well when it is finished. The perky little puffed sleeves add a pretty feminine touch to the whole affair—the half belted waistline is not only smart but slenderizing, too—and the patch pocket is very simple to apply and very convenient as well. Use any inexpensive cotton fabric for this pattern. Pattern 9181 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern. Do not miss our WINTER PATTERN BOOK of smart, easy-to-make clothes designed by our style authority, MARIAN MARTIN. Styles for every age and all occasions. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS. Send your order to The Herald Pattern Department, 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O. circleville, O.

HOUSING PLAN IS UNDER WAY IN 48 PLACES

Progress Being Made in Setting Up Committees; A. L. Guckert Is In Charge.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Completion of organization of committees in 48 communities of the Federal Housing Administration's southern Ohio district is announced by A. L. Guckert, associate director of the district, with headquarters in Columbus. Rapid progress is being made in setting up committees in other communities to direct the national government's campaign to stimulate building improvements and create employment opportunities.

Thus far FHA committees in the southern Ohio district have induced property owners to have modernization and repair work on homes and other buildings requiring a total expenditure of $1,162,992.97, Guckert reported. The estimated number of men given employment through this created work is 500 and the number of men given jobs that took them off relief rolls is placed at 200.

89 UNDER WAY

Surveys are under way in 39 communities to list property improvement needs on which owners are willing to spend cash or money borrowed under the Federal Housing Act. Expansion of these surveys and freeing of credit through the Housing Act are expected to provide work for many thousands of men and distribute many millions of dollars in new payoffs.

"Early response to the campaign in urban communities and rural areas of Ohio points to wide public interest in its major purposes—the improvement of property, the creation of jobs for building and equipment workers, and increasing the demand for construction materials," Guckert commented.

"To take advantage of the Federal installment borrowing plan, any property owner may apply to a bank, building and loan association or other financial institution authorized to make loans under the Housing Act.

"Modernization loans may be obtained for the purpose of repairing, altering or improving a home or other property in cities or on farms. From $100 to $2,000 may be borrowed. Loans can be repaid in from one to five years in monthly installments or, in the case of farmers, when seasonal income is received."

Year's night, after spending her Christmas vacation with her home folks.

Denny Boucher and Weldon Hill expect to enter the Office Training school in Columbus, Jan. 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Bell and son, Kenneth, and grand-daughter, Virginia, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Florence of near Circleville, last Sunday.

Mrs. James Wolford and daughter Eloise and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Florence attended the funeral Sunday of Rev. S. W. Hiles at Logan.

The C. E. society had a taffy pulling New Year's eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Florence, which was enjoyed by all who attended.

J. R. Hott, R. L. Rowe and son, Lindsey, attended the fox drive in Pickaway-twn New Year's day.

Household Arts

Filet crochet—what handsome bedroom or dining room linens this pattern will make! The simple rose design is effectively set off by the open meshes of the K stitch. You will find a design for a band that will make a handsome insertion as well as edging on curtains and bedspreads, smaller arrangements of the same design for vanity, buffet, or chair back sets as well as an arrangement of double bands that will make handsome scarfs. They are all to be crocheted of string making a 6 1/2 inch band. Of course, you can use a finer thread and get a narrower banding or edging that will do very well on pillow cases, towels and other small household linens. The pattern offers an unusual opportunity of making handsome curtains for your entire house at little cost.

In pattern 5283 you will find charts and directions for making a banding, an edging, scarfs, pieces for a vanity, buffet, or chair back set; material requirements; illustrations of the design and of all stitches needed. To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

WHAT'S THE REMEDY

WATCHING a traffic jam on West Main-st one afternoon this week was an interesting experience for quite a number of spectators. The usual parking spaces were filled, double parking on both sides of the street in evidence, in addition to two large trucks from which merchandise was being unloaded. The traffic lane was narrowed to a width of about eight feet, and two lady drivers approached the narrow opening from opposite directions at the same time. The result was that one of them suffered the humiliation of having to reverse her car and get out of the way—or traffic would have been tied up the remainder of the week.

And at the same time there were two or three motorists who were tearing their hair because they couldn't get their cars away from the curb, due to the practice of double parking.

As long as this condition of affairs is tolerated the more serious and hazardous it will become. It must be somebody's job to provide the remedy.

HIGH SCHOOL OF FUTURE

THE question what form high schools will take in the next few years will be in the minds of educators as they celebrate the 300th anniversary of the founding of American secondary schools. The modern high school is a far cry from Boston's Latin Grammar School, the founding of which in April, 1635, is the basis of the celebration, but the next steps in the series of evolutionary changes probably will mark far greater departures.

The unemployed youth of the nation is forcing, all unwittingly, a decision as to new interpretations of public responsibilities in the higher education field. Progressive educators have been urging for years that there be greater differentiation in secondary educational courses, but traditions have lingered. Nor is this wholly regrettable, for too often the revolutionary in his haste to rear the superstructure slights the foundation, hastily scrapping that laid before his coming.

The facts that industry is foregoing, under pressure, the immature worker, and that legislation is likely to justify such usage, point to a change so obvious that defense of new education aims will to many be the easy and natural course. However, the adherer to tradition must still be an active partner, if no longer a dictator, in shaping the new policies.

There must be in the great rejuvenation of education no forgotten group of youth. Not every child who comes into the modern world is destined for industry. Not every child is gifted only in the direction of the manual arts. Not all are fitted only to be followers, and leaders will still be needed.

If, until recently, the unacademically minded child has not had quite a square deal, neither has the exceptionally bright child, and perhaps the loss to the world at large has been really as great in the neglect of the latter as in the overlooking of the former.

However great the changes, they should be in the direction of multiplying opportunities to meet needs rather than in grading down standards to accommodate the less capable pupils.

HEALTHY SOLDIERS

THE country will be interested and pleased to learn from the annual report of the surgeon general that the United States army enjoyed more perfect health during the last year than in any similar period of its history.

In certain other respects, however, the army was not so fortunate. Fifty-seven soldiers ended their own lives, while fifty-six were killed in airplane crashes. An even more serious toll resulted from automobile accidents, eighty men having met death from this cause.

In addition, the army's good health and exuberance of spirits were not without their ill effects. Greater participation in athletics resulted in a correspondingly greater number of injuries, 3,876 men having received injuries of one sort or another from accidents during games, with baseball causing a third of all mishaps.

However, the really important thing is that the army is, on the whole, in the best of health and, in consequence, is working and playing harder.

Recent developments on the Pacific insular paradise suggest that, despite the great blessing of no taxes, life on a remote island has its unpleasant phases.

An inventor is putting a practically unbreakable 'china' on the market. A large part of the joy will automatically go out of the life of the average toddling youngster, who gets so much pleasure out of the crash of a falling plate.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

Little Sister

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

READ THIS FIRST:

After reading a letter from her reckless young sister, Lella, announcing her proposed elopement with a carpenter, Lella Madison rushes to New York from her suburban home where she lives with her Aunt Minnie. The sisters are orphans and members of an old Westchester family. Arriving outside her sister's apartment, Lella, who virtually is engaged to Orton Johnston-Hedges, her aristocratic neighbor, runs into Jerry Redmond, the too, as a roommate at Yale of the brother of Lella's fiance, is striving to halt the elopement. Jerry says the prospective bridegroom is Addison Huntington, a romantic radical, masquerading as Stark Freeman. Lella and Jerry find Bet and her roommate, Edna, waiting for Addy. He arrives a moment later. Jerry tells Addy the police want to question him about an acquaintance of his named Jarrell so they disguise Addy in girl's clothes. The police arrive and promise to return when they cannot find Stark Freeman, one remaining on guard outside the apartment. Jerry explains why he is trying to save Addy from the police. When the police return, they are all released after Jerry identifies the group. All except Edna motor to Lella's home and there Aunt Minnie, who is having tea with Mrs. Johnston-Hedges and Orton, meets Jerry and Addy who now has removed his feminine disguise. A policeman gives them all a scare when he arrives to register a neighbor's complaint about Lella's dog barking too much.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 13

"ADDISON inherits his strength of character from his father," Jerry was saying blandly to Mrs. Johnston-Hedges, while Addison glared at him across Bet. "You have, of course, heart of the magnificent way Mr. Hargess Huntington of Cleveland has handled his interests through the depression. You may even have listened in on his series of talks, 'Firmness in Our Present Crisis' on the radio."

Bet stared at Addison, aghast at this confirmation of her worst fears about Addison's background.

"Indeed I have," said Mrs. Johnston-Hedges in deep-voiced approval. "One of our representative citizens. I once met his sister-in-law. His dealings with his employees showed both intelligence and financial wisdom."

"I am not in the least like my father. I do not hold with his ideas," Addison was beginning to say stiffly.

Jerry interrupted in a loud voice, drowning out the end of the sentence.

"Now, Addison, don't be modest. Remember what I told you on the way out," he grinned.

For so young a man, Lella thought, Jerry Redmond got altogether too much pleasure out of other people's follies.

"A wonderful man," Mrs. Johnston-Hedges continued. "A father, if one may say so, to his workmen. And makes a fine car. You liked his talks, don't you remember, Minnie?"

"Oh, yes," said Miss Minnie. "Or, at least, almost all of them. There's such a nice little quartet of old-fashioned tunes that sometimes is on the same hour."

Her meek apology was cut short by her friend's booming on: "It will be a privilege, I am sure, to know his son better. A friend of our little Betty's, I gather?"

Bet had never been "our little Betty" before; she had been one of the worst examples of the age, whenever Lella's probable mother-in-law mentioned her. And now Mrs. Johnston-Hedges was being arched about her! Both Bet and Lella glanced across in surprise. And to Lella's still further surprise, Bet, whose pleasure had been shocking the lady for years past, said sweetly, "We are more than friends!" Which was not shocking at all, considering Bet.

Mrs. Johnston-Hedges beamed. As for Aunt Minnie, she looked as if she were about to say, "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace!" For three or four years now it had been increasingly borne in upon Aunt Minnie, who still held for the idea that marriage was the only thing for any girl, that Bet, for all her hard-working improprieties, was not attractive to gentlemen. And here, on the horizon—nay, in the actual house itself—was a gentleman. A gentleman who by his father's reputation was as eligible as Orton. A gentleman who regarded Bet and was regarded by her with possessiveness and affection. Unknowing of Addison's illegal intentions, unknowing of the fact that he and his father had finished with each other as definitely as any two people can, the sister ladies beamed.

Bet took another drink and crossed her legs high. Both these modest efforts at being wild had excited her aunt and her aunt's friend very much from time to time. But in the light of Bet's status, uncontradicted by Addison, they simply didn't care. She and the son of Hargess Huntington of Cleveland were more than friends!

"Ah, youth is indeed the time for mating, Bessie dear," said Mrs. Johnston-Hedges.

SCRAMBLEGRAPHS

Still quite a display of Christmas decorations here and there. . . . It's inventory time in the stores. Time for all of us to take stock. Nobody has time or patience to read all the proceedings of the Hauptmann trial and get to their meals on time. . . . Lots of people visited the library Wednesday night to see the exhibit of "Nests and Eggs of Birds in Ohio". . . . Some folks enjoy the spring like weather and others' growl about it and say it's unseasonable. . . . Going to the inauguration? . . . Clarence J. Brown will be in the 1935 edition of Who's Who. . . . Perhaps he will also be on the ballot in 1934. . . . Governor White's pen is decreasing the population of the state pen, when he signs his name to a pardon or parole, or whatever it is that gets prisoners out of the O. P. . . . Traffic jam on West Main-st. Wednesday afternoon. . . . Save your pennies; you'll need 'em when the sales tax hits you. . . . Still a few 1934 motor license tags in evidence. . . . Use Circleville products—it's a big boost to the old home town. . . . Big meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. . . . You can't get people together these days unless you fed 'em. . . . Almost every news item where two or more people are gathered together winds up with "Lunch was served". . . . They're still arguing in the Mecca about that oak or walnut counter top. . . . This is a good place to stop.

PLAYING THE GAME

A local golf bug tells me this story that was brought from the south by another golf bug: "Uncle Abe," a golfer asked his aged negro caddie, "what do you thing about the depression?" "De depresshun, sah?" replied Uncle Abe. "Why, it ain't nothin' but a game of golf, sah. All yuh needs to beat it is just three putts." "How's that, Uncle Abe," asked the interested golfer. "Yuh needs to putt yore faith in de Lawd, putt yore car under de shed, an' putt yore fambly in de field."

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Once again the screen turns to the seas and islands for romance and adventure, for here we have all the elements for picture appeal.

when you see "Red Morning" at the Cliftona Theatre, Saturday, do not expect the conventional island story, because this unique film, departs from conventional things and offers many thrills and surprises which certainly are not expected.

Marvelous photography and native scenes as well as battles between sea monsters, lend excitement to the romantic adventures of Steffi Duna and Regis Toomey. Incidentally, Miss Duna was the star of "La Cucaracha" which played the Cliftona New Year's day.

AT THE GRAND

Glenda Farrell, who has the leading feminine role in the Warner Bros. picture, "The Personality Kid," now showing at the Grand Theatre, is undoubtedly Hollywood's champion "don't" girl. She don't drive a car. She don't play tennis. She don't play bridge. She don't care for swimming. She don't like night clubs. She don't diet. She don't take special exercises. In fact, to be more grammatical, she doesn't care for any of the things that other movie stars profess to love. Golf leaves her cold. Parties annoy her.

"The Personality Kid" is the story of a second-rate prize-fighter with a swelled head and a roving eye for feminine pulchritude whose wife sticks by him through all his defections. Others in the cast include Pat O'Brien, Claire Dodd, Henry O'Neill, Robert Gleckler, Thomas Jackson, Arthur Vinton and others.

THE LAND OF HEART'S DESIRE

"Somewhere," he mused, "its dear enchantments wait. That land, so heavenly sweet; Yet all the paths we follow, soon or late, End in the desert's heat."

"And still it lures us to the eager quest, And calls us day by day"— "But I," she said, her babe upon her breast, "But I have found the way."

"Some time," he sighed, "when youth and joy are spent— Our feet the gates may win"— "But I," she smiled, with eyes of deep content, "But I have entered in."

Mrs. Thurn Answers Some Questions Sent Into Her At the Cooking School

Dear Friends in Circleville:

There are so many questions asked at the Cooking School which cannot be answered during the regular sessions, that I find it a good plan to keep a little notebook of inquiries and to refer to it week by week. Looking over it for this week's letter to you, I find these, below, unanswered, and some of them are pretty distressing to a good housekeeper! Especially this first one:

What can I use to clean aluminum pots easily when they are quite discolored and dirty. Now if my questioner means when they are sooty and black, dented and brown-stained from long weeks of careless cleaning, I want to administer a scolding right here. Aluminum is a wonder metal, one of the products of the modern age, given to us by modern industry, making a light-weight, easily cleaned, durable, serviceable utensil. And it deserves the best of care, as does any other of our household tools. It needs careful cleaning after each use, and if it is stained, black and badly discolored, then this condition shows that it has been put in the dish pan, it has been given a lick and a promise, and then was dried on a towel which must have suffered too.

TO Clean Aluminum

Aluminum in that condition, first, should be washed in hot soapy water; then scrubbed with the combination steel wool and special soap sold everywhere for this metal. This removes the embedded stain as well as the surface black. Then rinse in clear hot water. If it is still stained; boil in water containing a little lemon juice or vinegar and see it brighten at once. Then wash as usual in hot, soapy water, and rinse in clear hot water. Dry on a clean towel. Give it this treatment every time it is used.

Another reader says: If I use lemon juice on meat when searing it, my husband says it makes the meat taste sour. What amount should be used?

None need be used if the flavor of lemon is objectionable. Why not try it this way: broil the steak and serve it with hot melted butter in which there are a few drops of lemon juice; or if you prefer to a roast, omit lemon entirely, simply rub the meat with salt and pepper, then dredge with flour, then sear in the hot oven.

Another reader asks: Please tell us how to cut fancy vegetables for salads, garnishes and other uses.

To describe such a process using the usual kitchen tools is out of the question. But almost all cutlery departments in the stores and hardware shops, carry special vegetable cutters. These usually come in a set, packaged with directions for use. I suggest that one such a tool, or a set of tools be purchased. In the large cities, at the cutlery sections in the house furnishings departments, there are usually demonstrations of these tools. Step up and watch the demonstrator, then with the new set in your own kitchen, see what triumphs of vegetable sculpture are possible. The child who won't eat carrots may sometimes be tempted with this vegetable when cut with fancy cutters.

What is an Entree?

I quote from a book on entrees, the author an accomplished cook and menu maker: In the modern menu the characteristics of the entree are somewhat changed. Up to within the last ten years, entree, or side dish, was thought of principally as a dish served between or in conjunction with the main course of the dinner; but now the entree may supplant these dishes and so may be called the main dish; or in a large dinner, it may be the fish which precedes the meat or fowl course.

An entree, for common usage, is a "made" dish of chicken, fish, sea food; or any small meat dish such as sautéed slices of veal (but not a roast of veal); dishes of eggs, fresh vegetables, mushrooms, asparagus, fritters; delicate in nature; or with an unusual sauce; and being less bulky and less obviously "main dish" than for instance a roast, yet by its nature combining enough foods to serve as a nourishing, substantial dish. If placed on a large menu, then it may return to its original character, and be an entree between first course and main course; for instance delicate slices of fish in an unusual sauce; or eggs and mushrooms; or breast of chicken in a sauce.

No Broiler

If one has no broiler, how does one prepare steaks, and chops so they are as digestible as broiled meats?

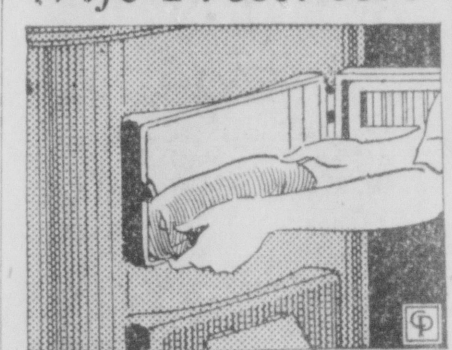

Pan broiling is a favorite method of meat preparation, and is simple, resulting in delicious as well as digestible meat. For chops, simply place them in a sizzling hot skillet, sear quickly on both sides, when brown reduce the heat and cook at a lower temperature until done. Do not cover and do not add water to the skillet. Season the chops with salt and pepper and spread with butter when ready to serve.

Steak is pan broiled the same way, although a skillet-cooked steak which is preferred by many is the Swiss steak method. Use two and one half pounds of steak, cut one inch thick; one half cup flour; two teaspoons salt; one half teaspoon pepper; one medium sized onion; one half medium sized green pepper. Sprinkle the meat with one fourth cup flour and seasoning. Pound this into the meat with a meat hammer or the edge of a thick plate. Turn the meat and repeat on the other side. Brown on both sides in hot drippings in a heavy skillet. Add one cup of water, cover tightly and cook slowly on top of the stove for one hour. If necessary add more water while cooking. Serves five or six.

What is the difference in the method of preparing these two dishes: au gratin and casserole. Au gratin is the French term used to describe anything heated in the oven under a cream sauce and crumbs, with or without cheese added to the crumbs. It usually applies to twice-cooked dishes, for instance to make potatoes au gratin, use boiled potatoes, then cut them in cubes, place in a shallow baking dish, cover with white sauce and crumbs, and add cheese or not. Heat in moderate oven, 375 degrees F., until the crumbs are delicately brown.

A casserole is a deep baking dish of glass or earthenware; any oven method of cooking may be followed in it with or without cream and crumbs; or the casserole of vegetables, for instance, may be au gratin, by having a cream sauce and crumbs and cheese added.

Halter neck with lacy pleatings and draped bodice are other style features of this dress.

CREAMED CHICKEN AND OYSTERS

One cup milk; one cup cream; two cups diced chicken; one pint oysters; one fourth cup butter; one fourth cup flour; one half teaspoon salt; one half cup finely chopped celery.

Melt the butter, add the flour, and seasonings and stir until well blended. Add milk and cream slowly, stirring constantly until thick. Boil one minute. Add chicken and oysters and cook until the oysters are plump. Add celery and serve on toast.

Good Welsh Rarebit

One pound American cheese; one tablespoon butter; two teaspoons salt; two teaspoons dry mustard; one teaspoon paprika; one can tomato soup; toast.

Shred the cheese with a fork, or put through the grinder. Melt the butter, stir in the seasoning, add cheese and let heat over a low flame until the cheese is melted. Stir in the tomato soup undiluted of course, and cook gradually. Do not stir all the time; let heat through stir around once, let heat again and stir once over the toast. Does not string.

Stuffed Eggs

Six hard cooked eggs; one tablespoon vinegar; one half tablespoon salad oil; two tablespoons deviled ham, or one tablespoon anchovy paste; one half teaspoon mustard; one half teaspoon sugar; pepper, salt, paprika. Cut the eggs in halves crosswise; remove the yolks and mash; add the other ingredients; mixing the seasonings together before adding. Refill the whites and arrange on lettuce leaves. A curled anchovy on each half is decorative and good.

Designating Labor Day

On June 28, 1894, President Cleveland approved a bill designating the first Monday of September in each year, the day celebrated and known as labor's holiday, "a legal public holiday to all intents and purposes as Christmas, the first day of January, the 22nd day of February, the 30th of May and the Fourth of July are now made by law public holidays."

Brighten up with
ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

This ailment may cause headaches and loss of energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and food-iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle—and often more effective. Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with ALL-BRAN! Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MONROE-TWP

The community was shocked to hear of the tragic death of Rex Grabbill Friday morning. He lived about two hours after being struck by a coal truck. He was taken to Dr. Irwin office in Mt. Sterling and then on to Grant hospital where he died as they got him there. Funeral services were held from the home Sunday afternoon. It was said to be the largest attended funeral held for sometime. Rev. Ewing of Mt. Sterling had charge of the services. Mrs. Jennie Dick, Mrs. Cora Winfough, Mrs. John Porter and Robert Walters sang "Going Down the Valley," "Sometime We'll Understand" and

"Good Night and Good Morning." Pallbearers were John Downs, Darrell Hatfield, Joseph Walters, Carl Haller, Johnny Ralph Downs and Francis Dean. Burial was in Darbyville cemetery. The Farmers Institute will be held at the school building Friday and Saturday of this week. Cash prizes will be given for the domestic show. The state is sending two good speakers and the school will furnish the music of Friday, under the supervision of Miss Julia Foster, the Sidalia orchestra will furnish the music for Saturday. Mr. Ansel Crowover is president and Russel Hosler secretary. The P. T. A. meeting for this month has been postponed until next Thursday evening.

DICK MELSON MAY START AT CENTER POST

Circleville Centers Have Made 34 Points Against 61 For Their Opponents.

Dick Melson, junior center who has been starring on the reserve team, may get his chance to make good at Delaware on the varsity tonight at the tip-off spot, if reported plans of Coach Pete Herberholz are true.

Melson has been doing a swell job in the pivot position against all opponents this year and has been a big factor in the success of that team which is comprised entirely of juniors.

If the tall blonde was the nod the first team will probably find Kirwin and Henry or Styers at forwards with John Jenkins and Speckman at the guards. It is possible Henry may be found at a guard with John Jenkins with Styers taking the other forward with Kirwin.

If Melson goes to center both Joe Jenkins and Grant will find seats on the bench where they have been alternating.

GOOD AT DEFENSE

Melson's defensive ability is much more versatile than either Jenkins or Grant. His offensive may not be quite so strong as Grant's, however, but is better than Jenkins'. In seven games played to date Grant started at center in four and Jenkins in three. Grant has scored an aggregate of 19 points and Jenkins 15, their totals making the average of points per game scored by the Circleville center less than five points.

Then let us turn to the opposing center. Draudt of Academy scored six, Burkey of Groveport four, Cox of Chillicothe 12, Peterson and Meadows of London two, Christy of Amanda seven, Ballenger of Westerville 12, and Scoles of A-hville 18. The total points scored against Circleville's two centers has been 61.

The conservative scores show that Coach Herberholz can afford to experiment with his center.

The reserves do not play at Delaware. The game will be officiated by Dave Parks and Bus McMillen.

SOLEM TO ACCEPT WILDCAT OFFER?

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 11—Ossie Solem, the University of Iowa football mentor, is the first choice of Athletic Director Kenneth L. Wilson to succeed Dick Hanley as head coach at Northwestern university, according to persistent reports today.

The same reports had it that Solem will eventually be signed to a contract at Northwestern this winter. Wilson and Solem are scheduled to meet here tomorrow for a discussion of terms.

When Hanley announced his resignation it was reported the Northwestern coach would go to Iowa and Solem would transfer his coaching duties to Northwestern, but authorities at both institutions denied the change was contemplated.

DON MILLER QUILTS LOUISVILLE SCHOOL

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11—Don Miller, one of Notre Dame's famous four horsemen, will not return to Louisville, Ky., as football coach of the St. Xavier high school next fall.

Miller announced he had resigned the football post because of the press of duties in his law business. He is associated here with his brother, Ray Miller, former mayor of Cleveland.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

NIL ON MARTIN

Bob Hoovey, Journal sports editor, has come forward with what he thinks will be the possible opening lineup for the Columbus Red Birds in the spring. In most places we agree with him but in others, No.—One of the spots is shortstop where we hope Hoovey is wrong—Young Stu Martin might be a good Class B shortstop but we can't see him in the AA.—It is doubtful if he can hit the pace and it is also doubtful if he can field the pace.

RIGHT HANDED TRIO

First, second and third bases look oke with Hurst, Sizafuss and Delker handling them. In our estimation a shortstop is needed. Then we turn to the outfield where Hoovey lists three right handed hitters, Cullop, Fullis and Peel.—It just doesn't click that Columbus should have three who hit to the left field side of the ball park when the right field fence is so much closer to the home plate.—How about Gene Moore, or how about going after Estell Crabtree now with Rochester.

WHAT A MONICKER

The battery, well, anyone with the name Ogdrowski should be able to do something, but we doubt if he will be behind the plate when the season opens.—Ed Greer may be all right as the starting hurler; there are many other we'd rather see on the hill.

STANFORD TO EAST

Stanford's football team, defeated by Alabama in a great Rose Bowl game, is seeking a game in the east for next season.—Such a contest would certainly be money in the pocket of the school fortunate enough to book the Indians.

HUGE CROWD TO WATCH CHOPPER

With interest increasing every day among wood-choppers, farm folks and others, the appearance here next Monday at 11 o'clock a. m. of Peter McLaren is expected to draw a large crowd.

Billed as the world's greatest wood chopper, McLaren will pit his ability against all comers in chopping a log in two, each contestant cutting against time. A large cash prize is offered to anyone who can do the feat in not over 50 per cent more time than it takes McLaren.

Barrere-Nickerson, local hardware dealer, in cooperation with a nationally known axe manufacturer, is sponsoring McLaren's visit and he will appear in front of that local store for his exhibition. According to Joe Lynch, manager of the store, several aspiring wood choppers have challenged the champion.

Boy scouts of the city will be dismissed from school Monday to take part in the program. It will be necessary for them to have excuses signed by their parents to present to their teachers.

BUCK MERMEN PREP FOR PITT CONTEST

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11—Mardened by the toughest competition the East had to offer, Ohio State swimmers will spend the next three weeks preparing for a contest of conference foes.

The first collegiate meet will be held the afternoon of January 26 against the University of Cincinnati in the Queen City pool, but the real test of the preconference season comes when the Bucks meet Pittsburgh here Feb. 2.

The Pittsburgh squad is the holder of the eastern conference title and is rated as one of the best balanced teams in the country. In the past years Ohio has won one and lost one meet to its Pennsylvania rival.

LOUIS READY FOR GERMAN BATTLER

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11—Joe Louis, colored Detroit heavyweight, was ready today for his meeting with Hans Birkie, the German-American fighter, here tonight.

The sensational Louis, who has been undefeated in his 13 fights as a professional, was a heavy favorite to defeat the veteran Birkie. They will fight 10 rounds.

Yesterday Louis and Birkie tapered off their training preparations in local gymnasiums. The Detroit fighter, in perfect physical condition, is expected to weigh in at about 195 pounds, while Birkie will weigh a few pounds less than that.

COUNTY 5S SPLIT

Washington and Saltcreek-twop cage teams split a twin bill Thursday evening on the Washington-twop court. The home girls won, 26-22 in a thrilling game which saw both teams tied at the half, 14-14. The Saltcreek boys, however put on a steady burst of speed to lead 18-6 at the half and 31-12 at the close of the game. Johnny Heiskell refereed.

Buckeyes Taper For Illini Tilt

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11—Tapering off with a light but snappy drill Ohio State university basketball players today concluded preparations for the opening game of their Big Ten cage season at home with Illinois here tomorrow night.

Beaten 32 to 21 by Iowa and victorious in an overtime match with Michigan, the game with Illinois was considered vital to the conference standing of the Bucks by either putting them above or below the 500 mark.

BEYNON IS THREAT
The Bucks will face a scoring threat in the Illinois squad, in the form of Jack Bynon, gridiron star who last year contributed to the solitary one-point defeat that Ohio State suffered in its entire football schedule.

Illinois, although licked by Indiana, came back last week to pull a surprise victory out of the fire in the game with Purdue.

Coach Harold Olsen, not yet certain of the Buck line up, was believed to be contemplating some changes in the starting line of forwards is an effort to provide a scoring punch handicapped by the lack of a tall center.

By International News Service—Ohio college basketball teams will be as busy as the proverbial bees tonight as the heavy week-end schedule is played off on the hardwood courts.

As a preliminary to the hostilities, two Ohio conference games were staged last night. Denison beat Wooster, the conference football leaders, 37 to 35 and Ashland turned in a fine trick by conquering Kenyon, 52 to 38.

GO TO MARSHALL
Interest in the week-end schedule is focused on the Illinois-Ohio State clash at Columbus and on horse contenders for the Buckeye conference tilt at Huntington, W. Va.

If Marshall loses to the Bearcats, the basketball season in the state probably will evolve into a game of "who can stop the Bearcats."

Cincinnati looms as the dark-horse contenders for the Cuckey leadership and it is undefeated this season.

Predicts Upturn

Mrs. Minnie W. Miller, "Idaho Sheep Queen," predicts an upturn in the industry for 1935. "Fewer sheep means better prices, and the drought cut down the total and government buying aided the movement for reduction. The outlook is highly optimistic," she says. Mrs. Miller is one of the foremost sheep breeders in America, and in addition helps manage the cattle business formerly carried on by her husband.

Risk Careers to Rap Film Makers

CONTEST OVER INAUGURAL MONEY LOOMS IN ASSEMBLY

WHITE LISTS NEW EXPENSE

Says Davey Wanted Additional Appropriation For Remodeling Office.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—With an interesting fight looming in the Ohio house of representatives over an $8,000 appropriation for Governor Martin L. Davey's inauguration, Governor White revealed today that he had refused a request from Davey for $12,000 to re-furnish and re-decorate the executive offices.

It cost White $37,223 to run the executive offices last year, he said. Allowing for salary increases in 1935 because of expiration of the state economy act, he estimated it would cost $41,300 to operate the office this year.

On these figures White based the sum requested in the partial appropriation bill for executive office maintenance for the first six months of 1935, he explained.

Davey, he said, wanted $9,000 more than his own budget allowed for ordinary office operating expenses, or about $50,000. This, with the requested $12,000 for renovation and re-decoration would have cost the state $62,000 during Davey's first year in office.

In refusing Davey's request for additional funds, Governor White sent word through Finance Director Clarence Burk that the new governor might try to get the money from the state emergency board if he still felt the need for it. There are five members of the emergency board, the finance director appointed by Davey, the chairman of the house and senate finance committees both of whom likely will be Democrats, and representatives of the attorney general and state auditor, both Republicans.

Another alternative for Davey would be to ask the legislature to put through a special appropriation bill to provide funds for “modernizing” the executive offices. But such bill might fail to make the hurdle in the lower house, where, after Rep. O. B. Chapman (D) Dayton, resigns to become a member of Davey's cabinet, the Republicans will have a majority of two members.

There also are several “economy” Democrats in the lower house who might balk at the new governor's request for such sum.

In approving the $8,000 item for the Davey inaugural, White let it be known that he considered it excessive, pointing out that the total cost of his own two inaugurations to the state was only $3,590.

“DISCOMMODE WHITE”
It was stated at the governor's office that Davey had hoped the remodeling might be completed or at least well under way when he takes office next Monday, but the present administration turned down the idea because it might “discommode” Governor White.

SCOUT LEADERS IN CONFERENCE ON TWO DATES

Many special features are promised as well as a new Camp Manual at the Scout Leaders' Camp Conference of Pickaway Division, to be held in the basement of the Southern Ohio Electric Co., on Jan. 14 and 21.

All Scout leaders, especially Scoutmasters, are planning to attend this conference, where the plans for the summer Troop Camping in 1935 will be discussed and plans for the promotion and the preparation of this Camp will be brought out. Special announcements will also be given in regard to the coming National Jamboree to be held at Washington D. C. in the summer of 1935.

As this year is the 25th Anniversary of Scouting, all Scout Troops will be trying to have real out-of-doors activities in the summer of 1935 and each Troop Camp will be known as the Silver Jubilee Troop Camp.

All Scout leaders are invited to attend this meeting as well as any of the public who may be interested. The conference will be conducted by camping experts both locally and from the Staff of the Central Ohio Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

at the farm or products sold at the stores for resale to consumers. Farmers selling and delivering their own products to consumers must have a vendor's license and collect the tax, just the same as a retail merchant.

Mr. Geissinger stated that the various classifications are being worked out by the tax commission as rapidly as possible and that business groups would be informed through their organizations as to the rules and regulations affecting each particular line of business.

He was emphatic on one point, however, and that is that the sales tax must be collected. The tax commission will be firm and will not permit chiseling. The law has teeth in it and, according to the speaker, the commission is going to make it work.

He told the retailers that records of all transactions must be kept in such a manner that inspectors could readily check up on sales, and that this would be done at regular intervals.

DIRECTORS ELECTED
Directors of the Chamber of Commerce for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Reed Shaffer, K. J. Herrmann, Harry Steinhauser, Lawrence Johnson, Frank Lynch, Joseph Burns and D. D. Dowden. The directors expect to hold their organization meeting later in the week.

Mary as “ideal.” Until a few years ago there was never a hint the couple was anything but congenial. It was in 1930 the first hint of a rift in the great love at Pickfair, the magnificent estate built by the couple on the hills overlooking Hollywood, came.

“NO CONSIDERATION”
Among other things charged in her divorce complaint, Miss Pickford asserted that Fairbanks “lacked consideration for her feelings and sensibilities.”

After a long absence Fairbanks returned to Hollywood last summer. At the time he announced he was “home to stay” and mutual friends felt a reconciliation was strengthened by frequent meetings of the couple.

However, finally, shortly before Christmas Fairbanks again left Hollywood and returned to Europe. Miss Pickford married Fairbanks 26 days after she divorced Owen Moore, her first husband, on March 2, 1920, at Minden, Nev.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11.—Incendiaries were being sought by authorities today as firemen continued to pour water on the charred hulk of an eight-story building in the downtown district, gutted in the most spectacular fire here in many years. Loss was estimated at $150,000.

Call Schwarzkopf in Trial OHIO BUSINESS

his home in the Bronx and asked for them.

Reilly let the matter of the “mystery woman” rest right there. He indicated he would call her to the stand for the defense. A report that she will tell a different story about the ransom receiver, “John” than Condon told on the stand is regarded as fantastic by the prosecution. Meanwhile, Reilly has the court room fans guessing about this woman.

EXPERT ON STAND

Today Albert S. Osborn, noted New York hand-writing expert who made a close study of Hauptmann's penmanship and compared it with the penmanship in the ransom notes, took the stand as a key witness for the state. Other handwriting experts to be called include Osborn's son, Albert also a German graphologist and a United States government handwriting authority.

The elder Osborn, testifying at the Hauptmann extradition hearing in New York a few months ago, said that in his opinion there is a striking similarity between Hauptmann's penmanship and the writing on the Lindbergh ransom notes. The evidence to this effect, he asserted, is “absolutely overwhelming.”

Osborn in his analysis of Hauptmann's handwriting examined the defendant's application for motor vehicle licenses and other specimens and found them similar to the penmanship of the ransom notes.

For example, he noted the misplacing of the letter “H.” On one of Hauptmann's applications the word “light” was written l-i-h-t. In one of the ransom notes the word “right” is spelled r-i-g-h-t. The word “the” was written h-e another ransom note.

The state's handwriting experts are expected to testify that Hauptmann disguised his handwriting when he allegedly wrote the ransom notes and also when he gave the police in New York city specimens of his handwriting shortly after his arrest last September.

MAY RECALL CONDON

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, heading the prosecution's legal battery, indicated today that Dr. Condon may be recalled as a rebuttal witness. In the opinion of the state's lawyers, “Jasie” proved to be an excellent witness for the state. They insist the shrewd and experienced Reilly failed to break him down on any essential points under cross-examination.

Col. Henry Breckinridge, close friend and adviser of Col. Lindbergh, corroborated Condon's testimony. Breckinridge testified that “Jasie” opposed the payment of any ransom money to the supposed kidnappers of the baby, “except C O D with the return of the child.”

Breckinridge's testimony seemed to have the effect of nullifying the efforts of the defense to link Condon in some mysterious manner with the kidnapping plot. In spite of the lengthy and bitter infernal attack Reilly launched at Condon, the elderly Bronx educator stood up well on cross-examination.

“He (Condon) never got a cent for his services,” said Breckinridge. “He merely followed instructions from Colonel Lindbergh or myself after he received his first ransom notes in reply to that ad he inserted on his own volition, in a Bronx paper.”

$50,000 LOST IN COLUMBUS FLAMES

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Fifty thousand dollars damage and two firemen injured were the results of a fire at Chapman's Grocery at 1551 N. Fourth-st. early today.

The flames spread from the basement and first floor of the store to Chapman's Tea room, 1545 N. Fourth-st.

Firemen, who were called at 4:50 a. m. by Lloyd Charles, a baker, had the fire under control at 9 a. m.

Fireman Oscar J. Shelhart was slightly burned about the face and hands, and Fire Captain Hubert Zaayer was severely cut.

These precautions were not taken at the start of the trial. But Hauptmann looked like a different man then. His inscrutable face showed not a single sign of worry. A vague look of fear began to come over him during the testimony of Dr. John F. (Jasie) Condon, however, and today the prisoner was positively haggard.

Is This Too Good For Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)

Follow the Straight Line

“A straight line is the shortest distance between two points.” That holds for any two points—your pocketbook and your list of wants, for example. Follow the straight line, and you'll save yourself time, trouble and money.

Use the advertising columns of this newspaper as guide posts. In them, you find late news of what's to be had in the markets of the world. No need for you to meander about from store to store, comparing, pricing, judging, guessing values. The advertisements tell you the names of merchants and manufacturers you can trust. There you read what's new, what's favored, what's offered confidently for your inspection. The advertisements in this paper take you into more stores than you could visit in a month.

There's no high-pressure selling, no rush, no uncertainty to this daily review of markets. Form the good habit of shopping by the straight line method—you'll buy with assurance, with economy and with satisfaction.

Ickes' Refusal of Grant For New York Bridge Laid to Recent Feud

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—There has been a lot of speculation as to why Secretary of the Interior Ickes, branded as a fighter for the people, should be in the weird position of gunning for Robert Moses, New York Park Commissioner, also branded as a fighter for the people.

The inside, though carefully guarded, fact is that Ickes is merely acting as "trigger man." It was he who issued the order, in effect, that Mayor LaGuardia could get no more PWA money for New York's Triborough Bridge or for other Public Works projects until Park Commissioner Bob Moses was removed.

Actually, the order came from the White House.

For although the President usually is the friendliest person in the world, he happens to be nursing a vendetta against Bob Moses which not only is vitriolic but of long standing.

Bank Investigator

There was a day when Roosevelt, then Governor of New York, appointed Moses on a commission to investigate the failure of the City Trust Company. This was on the recommendation of Herbert Lehman, who did a bang-up job and secured the conviction of Frank Ward, head of the New York Bank Department.

Also, he reported that the Bank of United States was in a bad way, recommended that something be done about it. He would not say whether he would appoint Moses on a new legislative commission to clean up the entire banking situation.

But about that time the Roosevelt feud with Al Smith reached a climax. Moses sided with Al, had been one of his closest advisers. Bob is a sort of bull in a china shop, fearless, uncontrollable, irreverent regarding those who step on him.

Roosevelt didn't like him and apparently could not forgive him. Basil O'Connor, Roosevelt's law partner, came to Moses and asked if he would not decline appointment on the banking commission if the Governor made the gesture of offering it. Moses told him where to get off.

So the appointment never came. Henry Pollak was appointed instead—and later indicted. The program Moses outlined was not carried out. As he predicted, the Bank of United States crashed.

Still, the vendetta continues. LaGuardia will get no more PWA money until Moses is removed as Park Commissioner.

And the irony of it is that Bob Moses found Al Smith lined up against him, supporting Roosevelt's candidate, Governor Lehman, in the last New York campaign.

Huey Laugh

Best recent laugh in Washington was over the report that Huey Long had removed a Louisiana road official with the explanation that he, Huey, had taken the pledge himself and state officials should live up to it.

Lucky Lunchers

Because they can eat for ten minutes longer than other federal workers, employees of the Government Printing Office are extremely grateful to Mrs. Roosevelt.

It happened through a mistake. The First Lady, due to dedicate the Mother's Day stamp at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, got her buildings mixed and showed up instead at the Government Printing Office.

It was 11:30. The first shift were pouring out for lunch. Mrs. Roosevelt got into the tide, was greeted and almost knocked over. She asked a girl why they were hurrying.

"We've got to be back in half an hour and the cafeteria's crowded."

Later, Mrs. Roosevelt talked the matter over with George H. Carter, then Public Printer. Shortly, an announcement was circulated giving all workers 40 instead of 30 minutes for lunch.

60 Attend Chamber of Commerce Meeting Take Part In Forum

ELECT DIRECTORS

Many Provisions Subject To Alteration

From the standpoint of attendance, interest, enthusiasm and good-fellowship, the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held Thursday night was one of the most successful in the history of the organization. Sixty members and guests enjoyed the splendid dinner at Hanley's tearoom, following which the business session was held.

H. T. Geissinger, a representative of the state tax commission, was the speaker of the evening and his explanation of the sales tax law was of great interest to the many retailers present. Mr. Geissinger who was introduced by President Reed Shafer, outlined the operation of the law in a general way in his preliminary remarks and then turned the meeting into an open forum in order that questions of interest locally might be asked and answered. The speaker covered all phases of the sales tax law and answered many questions propounded by retailers.

The speaker stated that January 14 has been set as the deadline for merchants to secure vendor licenses, and that the law will become operative on January 28. The delay has been due to the enormous amount of printing required for the tax commission to arrange for the collection of taxes, issuing licenses, printing the stamps, and completing the organization work in each county of the state. The commission is making every effort to see that the new law will work as smoothly as possible from the beginning, and is rendering all assistance possible to retailers.

QUESTIONS ASKED

The questions brought out many points of interest but the speaker pointed out that all the regulations so far adopted by the commission are subject to change as conditions warrant. Rulings are being made according to interpretations of the law, and hearing affecting various groups bring out further discussions relative to the operation of the law and its effect on different lines of business.

Mr. Geissinger stated that in all cases of sales of tangible personal property to the consumer, the sales tax must be collected by the vendor. The tax cannot be absorbed by the dealer, but must be collected from the consumer. Sales made to political subdivisions are exempt from the tax, and no tax can be collected on the sale of merchandise purchased by mail outside the state, as the federal laws exempt interstate commerce transactions from tax.

CONDON REFUSES TO SELL STORY

$50,000 Offered For Account of His Part In Ransom Negotiations.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Dr. John F. "Jafie" Condon has refused more than $50,000 for his personal "inside" story of the Lindbergh ransom negotiations, it was revealed today by Attorney General David T. Wilentz.

Wilentz said he had personal knowledge of one offer of $50,000 for this story by "Jafie." He also declared that Condon was offered "several" thousand of dollars yesterday for a brief account of his part in the Lindbergh case.

While disclosing this, Wilentz announced that he had a witness, John Condon, of Philadelphia, ready, at a Trenton hotel, to come here to testify that he was the only man who withdrew a book of symbols from the New York public library on or around a date in February, 1932, that Chief Justice Counsel Edward J. Reilly has intimated he will charge that Dr. Condon withdrew such a book.

The service tonight will be at the Methodist Episcopal church with Rev. L. C. Sherburne as the preacher.

Tears Fill Her Eyes as Pickford Wins Freedom From 'Doug' Fairbanks

Mary Pickford

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 11.—Chronologically-minded observers in the lobby of the Palace hotel here today computed that Douglas Fairbanks was dancing with Lady Ashley—in whose husband's divorce suit he was named co-respondent—at the precise moment that Mary Pickford, 6,000 miles distant, won an interlocutory decree from him.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11.—Divorced from Douglas Fairbanks, almost as quietly as she married him 15 years ago, Mary Pickford today was absent from her usual Hollywood haunts.

She was in hiding, somewhere in California, traveling by automobile, with only a woman companion.

This has been too dreadful, I have no comment, Miss Pickford said as she left the courtroom of Judge Ben B. Lindsey.

It was learned that Miss Pickford will ride constantly, until she returns to Hollywood sometime Saturday to rehearse for a radio program. It was indicated Miss Pickford and her companion, whose identity was not revealed, would not stop at any hotels during the brief trip.

DOUG NOT REPRESENTED

Fairbanks, now in Europe, was not represented in court when Miss Pickford, accompanied by her attorney, Lloyd Wright, appeared. The hearing was brief, and the questioning of the star, perfunctory.

Miss Pickford testified she had been a resident of Los Angeles—continuously for the past three years—that the facts contained in her divorce complaint were true and that "there is no community property and a fair and equitable settlement had been made."

Judge Lindsey then said: "I have read the complaint. There is no need of going into the details. I will grant the divorce."

"America's Sweetheart" smiled with quivering lips and tear-dimmed eyes as she left the courtroom.

Thus, the ideal romance of two of the greatest stars of the silver screen came to an end.

The romance of "America's Sweetheart" and her athletically inclined husband began with their almost secret marriage on March 28, 1920. The marriage was not announced until three days later.

Screenland always held the matrimonial affairs of Doug and Mary.

WEILER GETS TAX POSITION

Local Man Called to Columbus To Be Assigned Duties In Sales Tax Division.

E. W. "Ernie" Weiler, this city, was called to Columbus Friday to be assigned his duties under the sales tax set-up after receiving notification of his appointment.

Weiler, former Pickaway county relief director and an active worker for the Democratic party during the fall election, did not know when he left for the tax commissioner's office just what his duties would consist of. It was believed, however, that he would be named a senior examiner.

He was certified to the tax commissioner's office by the state Democratic patronage committee.

A number of county persons are seeking jobs of less importance in the sales tax division.

Reports were current in the county today that Milton S. Cox, former Pickaway school superintendent, will be appointed conservation commissioner in the Davey administration. Cox is now located in State Democratic headquarters.

Mayor W. B. Cady is also an applicant for the conservation department job.

Lutheran Brotherhood Starts 1935 Program

The opening meeting of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood for the year 1935, was held last evening in the parish house, with a splendid attendance and a manifestation of much interest.

The newly installed president, Harry Bartholomew, was in the chair and after conducting the usual business session, called for suggestions for improvement of the brotherhood for the new year. Many ideas were advanced that will undoubtedly help the executive committee in rounding out the programs along a somewhat different line from previous years.

Action was taken to contribute $10 toward a $500 fund to purchase new music for the choir of the church.

Delay In Postmastership At New Holland Caused By Clogged Offices.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 11.—The Civil Service Commission and not Congressman Mell Underwood is responsible for the delay in the naming of postmasters in his district, it was stated today in the Congressman's office.

Examination of the list of eligibles for the New Holland office is already over, it was stated, and due to the swamped condition of the large number of papers to be graded no report has been made as yet.

In reference to the Orient and Clarkburg offices, it was stated that the examinations for those offices will not close until January 18. No action can be taken then, it was pointed out, until the Commission has graded the papers and a report made.

FAIRFIELD-CO MAN HELD FOR MURDER

LANCASTER, Jan. 11.—Leland Russell, 34, of Pickerington, today was indicted on a charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of his wife, Edna, 41, at their farm home near here November 6.

Mrs. Russell's death had at first been attributed by Coroner James L. Walt to a heart attack but a subsequent investigation after a still was found in the basement of the dwelling led to a partial confession by Russell that he and his wife had fought during a drinking party.

Russell was arrested by federal authorities and lodged in jail at Columbus on charges of operation of the still but he will be released to local authorities for trial on the murder charges, punishable by a life term in prison upon conviction.

NEW BILL FOR SOLDIER BONUS SEEN IN HOUSE

Leaders Planning Substitute For Patman Bill To Uphold Veto

PAY PRESENT VALUE

Proposed Bill Would pay Present Value

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Reconciled to passage of a cash bonus bill by Congress, administration leaders today were planning a substitute to be offered at the last moment in the hope of sustaining President Roosevelt's expected veto.

The substitute would provide for payment of the adjusted service compensation certificates at their present value—about 60 per cent of their face value. The cash bill, sponsored by Rep. Patman (D) of Texas, would pay the face value.

ESTIMATES DIFFER

Officials of the veterans' administration have estimated the Patman bill would cost $3,500,000,000 while the proposed substitute would cost but $2,000,000,000. Both figures have been disputed by statisticians for veterans' organizations, who declare the Patman bill would cost but $2,200,000,000 while payment of the present value would cost but a few hundred million dollars, since 97 per cent of the veterans have borrowed to the hilt on their certificates.

After a survey of sentiment in House and Senate, administration leaders were convinced they could not expect enactment of the Patman bill in one form or another. They therefore concentrated on developing sufficient administration support to sustain Mr. Roosevelt's expected veto.

WOULD TRADE VOTES

Their present plan would call for introduction of the substitute measure, after enactment of the Patman bill and before the President vetoes it. Then, administration leaders would promise to help enact the substitute bill if Congress sustains the veto.

Husband Denies Amelia Earhart Putnam To Fly From Honolulu.

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 11.—Reports from the mainland that Amelia Earhart, famed aviatrix, would take off at daybreak today in her low-wing monoplane on a Honolulu-California flight, were denied by her husband, George Putnam.

He refused to make any announcement concerning plans for the proposed flight.

AKRON, Jan. 11.—A new speed record was hung up today for the 100-mile Akron-to-Miami, Fla., flight.

Ray W. Brown, director of aeronautical sales for the General Tire and Rubber Co., covered the distance in his Lockheed-Vega plane in seven hours, 43 minutes, the company announced today. Brown was clocked by airport officials at Akron and again at Miami when he arrived there last night for the all-American air races.

Brown traveled at an average speed of 181.5 miles an hour to beat the former record of more than 10 hours, which has stood for two years.

CHILLICOTHE MAYOR DEMANDS MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP; ELECTION IS PROBED

The mayor said he would run on a platform demanding municipal light and water plants for Chillicothe.

The January Rossco grand jury voted no indictments after its probe of alleged returns in Presidential election was completed. The grand jury, however, indicated that clear investigation of election officials was needed.

"PURSE SNATCHER" IS COLUMBUS BOY

A 12-year-old boy who gave his name as Albert Hall and said his home was in Marion had been identified today as Albert Waddell and is a son of Carl Waddell, 1224 Indiana-ave., Columbus.

The boy was arrested Thursday evening after he snatched the purse of Mrs. William Clark. He told the police and Juvenile Officer Frank Goff a whole series of lies, trying to trace him in Marion, Ohio, and that he was using no name and that he was a Franklin juvenile officer were to come here for him today.

OHIO BUSINESS SHOWS UPTURN

Industrial Employment 19.3 Better Than 1933, Research Bureau Shows.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Industrial employment in Ohio showed a 19.3 per cent increase in 1934, as compared to 1933, the business research bureau of the Ohio State university reported today.

It also disclosed that the millions of dollars poured into the state's trade channels by Christmas shoppers resulted in a four per cent increase throughout the state, as compared to the average November-December gain of only 1.1 per cent during the past five years.

The bureau's estimate of 1934 industrial employment was hidden deep in its survey for the month of December. It said:

"For all industries, Ohio showed a January-to-December gain of 19.3 per cent in 1934. Employment increase in manufacturing for the 12 months was 20.8 per cent, for non-manufacturing 10.2 per cent and for construction 2.2 per cent."

FIRST HALF OF YEAR

"The greater part of the increase in 1934 occurred in the first half of the year, when the increase from corresponding 1933 months ranged from 26.6 per cent to 48.2 per cent. During the latter half of the year, the spread between the two years was narrower but each month in 1934 was above the corresponding month of 1933."

However, the upturn in December improved and was contrasted, following a gain in November, brought employment during that month in Ohio to a point 7.1 per cent greater than a year ago, it was said.

WASHINGTON, C. H., Jan. 11.—The $35,000 damage suit of Charles P. Jamison against William C. Munton, The O. K. Trucking Co. and the Valley Motor Freight Co. has been filed in Fayetteville courts. A jury gave Jamison $5,000 damages but a plea for a new trial was allowed. Before the second trial could be called a compromise was reached. C. A. Leist, Circleville, represented Jamison.

Guard Alien Against Try At Own Life

Each Hand Held By Guard Leaving Court Room; Strict Rules Govern Crowd.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—New precautions against any possible suicide attempt today surrounded Bruno Richard Hauptmann as his trial for the murder of baby Lindbergh went into the eighth day.

As he enters and leaves the courtroom now, his two burly guards take vice-like grips on his two hands. Each guard takes a hand, one walking in front, one behind, forming a sort of human manacle for the white-faced prisoner.

This precaution is to preclude any attempt by anybody in the jammed courtroom to pass a weapon or poison to Hauptmann, who, by Justice Thomas W. Trencard's orders, is not handcuffed while in court. It also will remove any chance for the prisoner to grab one of the pistols which stick out of open holsters on the guards' hips.

MUST STAY IN SEATS

Also, Justice Trencard has ordered that all spectators must keep their seats until after the defendant has been led from the courtroom.

TAX PERMITS LAGGING HERE

Date Extended To "Middle of Week;" Only 300 of 700 Get Licenses.

The deadline for obtaining vendor licenses under Ohio's new three-cent sales tax today was extended from January 14 to "the middle of next week" on order of Carlton Dargusch, sales tax administrator, Deputy Auditor T. D. Krinn announced today.

All retailers in the state are affected. Dargusch warned, however, that if merchants fail to obtain a vendor's license before sales tax collections start, "we will have to enforce the law." Violation of the law is punishable by a fine of from $25 to $50 for the first conviction. The tax commissioner estimated that there are about 125,000 retailers in the state who will need licenses.

He still held to the hope that actual collections could start Jan. 21 but said "I don't know, the state treasurer's office may announce another delay," Krinn said.

To date only 300 licenses have been issued with 700 expected to be needed in the entire county. With 400 not yet filed Mr. Krinn issued a warning that retailers who wish to avoid extreme confusion and inconvenience should at once obtain their vendor's licenses. The licenses cost $1 and are available at the auditor's office. Application forms can be obtained by mail from the auditor's office, and licenses also will be issued by mail upon receipt of the application form, properly filled out and accompanied by the $1 fee.

The law requires every person or company which sells tangible property for final consumption to collect the sales tax on such goods. With each sale the seller must issue a tax certificate stamp. To buy a supply of these stamps the dealer must first obtain a license.

The license is required not only of retailers in the ordinary sense of the word, but also of jobbers who sell goods for final consumption, undertakers and others selling caskets or other goods as an incident to the practice of a profession, newstands selling magazines, house-to-house canvassers, filling stations selling anything other than gasoline and many other classes of vendors.

Ignorance or oversight will be no excuse for failure to comply with the law Mr. Krinn said.

HUNGRY, DELAWARE MAN DEVOURS CAT

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 11.—William Ellis was very hungry.

So he ate his landlord's cat.

Ellis took pains to make this astounding announcement today because, he charged, he had applied for aid to the Wilmington relief commission last December 14 and waited in vain until the pangs of hunger became too acute.

"Balled cat makes a delicious dish," Ellis revealed. "It is a little more tasty than rat."

The landlord declined to comment.

SCHWARZKOPF TESTIFYING IN BRUNO'S TRIAL

Ransom Notes, Money Taken Into Court As Exhibits In State's Case

TESTIMONY IS DRAB

Defense Expected To Provide Fireworks

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police, was called to the stand today at 11:45 a. m. at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON

TON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Not a single Lindbergh ransom bill has turned up since the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. Frank J. Wilson, star investigator for the United States Bureau of internal revenue, declared today at the witness stand at the trial of Hauptmann, alleged murderer of the Lindbergh baby.

Wilson told of going to the Lindbergh home on March 13, 1932, and of studying the ransom notes and symbols. He revealed for the first time that the ransom money was made up twice. The first time the serial numbers were not taken down. The second time they were.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—Handwriting experts take the spotlight today at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the pale-faced, phlegmatic German carpenter accused of murdering the Lindbergh baby.

This means the tempo of the trial is about to fall to a lower beat after a series of melodramatic seasons. From the stratospheric heights of emotion the trend of testimony will descend into technical and less turbulent channels.

The prosecution has passed its peak, from the standpoint of sensation.

RANSOM IDENTIFIED

COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 11.—The Lindbergh ransom was brought into the courtroom today for identification by Frank J. Wilson, government witness.

sations. The jury and the spectators have heard Colonel Lindbergh, Mrs. Lindbergh, Betty Gow and the incomparable "Jafie." Witnesses for possible "surprise witnesses" of the court room fans can hardly anticipate any more such thrills from the state's side.

DRAMA OF DEFENSE

But, in the offing, looms the drama of the defense. The appearance on the stand of Bruno Richard Hauptmann himself, and of his loyal wife, Anna. The day Hauptmann goes on and tells his own story may well prove to be the highlight of the entire trial.

Edward J. Reilly, the big, good-humored chief counsel for the defense and master showman, indicates he has plenty of thrills in store for the courtroom habitués. He fell down on them yesterday, however, when he failed to name—as he had promised—"two women and at least two men" as the "real kidnappers." Thursday was the day he said he would do it.

"I did not say what Thursday was, the suave Reilly's aim: to lay, instead of the identity of the real kidnappers. Reilly now has court room observers conjecturing concerning the "mystery woman" he has injected in to the trial. She is Miss Hermine Koeman, of Long Island City. At Reilly's request she came from among the spectators yesterday while Dr. John F. Condon, was on the stand and confronted "Jafie" for a few minutes.

Condon admitted he recalled her. He gave her two letters when she and a woman friend called at

VILLAGE'S TWO PUBLIC WORKS JOBS CONTINUE

Sanitary Sewer Work at Ashville Commended; Projects Are Discussed.

Work on Ashville's sanitary sewer system got under way Wednesday morning when Contractor on Main-st at the Scioto-st junction, J. Wetzel commenced operation.

Bartling and Son had previously removed the brick and concrete from Main-st as the sewer and water mains will go in the same truck. The sewer will be placed first on proper grade and then backfilled to the depth of the water mains. These will be laid on a V-shaped bench and when tested will be backfilled and brick placed in position by the water works construction contractors.

Construction work on the water-works will be well toward completion when the Main-st work is in. The most important part will be to go under the railroad tracks to the tank at the N. & W. depot.

GO UNDER TRACKS

Mr. Royer and Mr. Mills of the railroad company were in Ashville Wednesday and completed

New Baby Star

Jane Withers

Here, fans, is the newest baby star of the films—Jane Withers, just eight years old. Jane won widespread recognition and a long-term contract as a result of her work in a recent film with Shirley Temple. As a matter of fact, she now is looked upon as a real rival of Shirley herself.

plans for this work which is now in progress. Permission has also been granted to go under tracks at the Main-st crossing. With this part of the work out of the way there will yet remain the property installation. This part of the project has not kept pace with construction as the contract calls for pipe to be pushed into buildings from the mains. The machines in use work all right unless rocks are encountered, but the job will be put through even though an air compressor has to be employed.

The Downing and Hetrick contract at the pump station is moving slowly on work on the iron removal plant. Pumps, motors and other machinery are on the grounds ready for installation in the two brick pump houses to be erected.

C. M. Baker and Son, subcontractors on drilling the second well, have completed that work. The new well is 69 feet deep, seven feet deeper than the first one, and gives promise of plenty of water. As soon as the screen arrives the well will be tested.

Contractor Stoner is making slow progress at the disposal plant. He has already encountered almost every imaginable obstacle possible. Bridging has been placed in the pit and a pump is constantly in use to keep the water from interfering with setting of forms for concrete.

ERECTING TANK

The Chicago Bridge and Iron Works with a crew of experienced steel workers are at work on the 100,000 gallon elevated tank. Two sections have already been erected to a height of 70 feet. The tank will be 100 feet from the ground and when placed in position it will tower about 140 feet in the air.

OUR YESTERDAYS—When Ethel Barrymore Made Debut, Starting Glamorous Stage Career

When she started career

Ethel with her brother, John Barrymore

WHEN HISTORIES of the stage are written in years to come, the name of Ethel Barrymore should figure prominently. Her first appearance was back in 1894, when she played the role of Juliet in "The Rivals" at the Empire theater, in New York City. In the vernacular of the stage, she checked in that play, and was popular for years afterwards. The daughter of Maurice Barrymore and Georgie Drew, both stars of the stage, she is the sister of John and Lionel Barrymore, well-known actors of the stage and screen.

STARS OF RADIO LAND

One of radio's most popular teams also is a domestic team, and at home it's popular, too, so say its members. George Olsen's band and the singing of his talented wife, Ethel Shutta, have featured many radio programs. Above is a smile from each.

Film Couple to Wed

Announcement that Melville A. Shauer, screen executive, and Rosita Moreno, actress, pictured above, will be married in June, has just been made. Miss Moreno will make picture in east first.

MERCHANT VICTIM OF MONOXIDE GAS

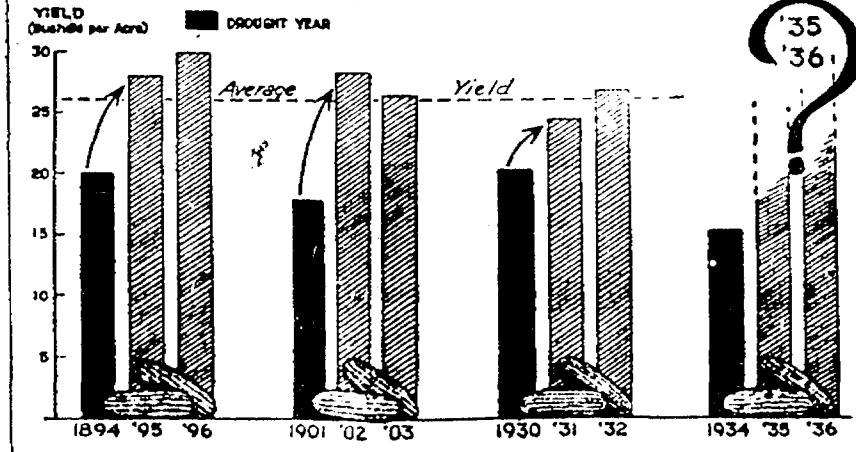

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—John Silver, 47, operator of a dry goods store at Mt. Sterling, was found dead Thursday afternoon from carbon monoxide poisoning in his garage at 1207 Whittier-st. Silver had gone to the garage at 9:30 a. m. Thursday intending to visit a grocery store for Mrs. Silver. Five hours later his wife sent a girl who lives with them to the garage to see if the car had been removed. Silver was found dead sitting at the wheel.

WAR VET DEAD

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Lewis N. Conrad, Civil War veteran, past commander of Wells post G. A. R., assistant adjutant general and quartermaster general of the Ohio department of the G. A. R., died Thursday afternoon at his home here.

He joined the army in Morrow-co.

CORN YIELDS HAVE INCREASED FOLLOWING DROUGHT YEARS

A STUDY of the past reveals that corn yields have a pronounced tendency to return to normal or better following seasons of abnormally dry weather. As indicated by the shaded columns in the above graph, the production per acre after the three severe drought years of 1894, 1901, and 1930 rose from a low average of about 15.6 bushels to approximately the normal United States annual average of about 26 bushels per acre. The yield of both barley and oats also was higher in two out of the three seasons following years of unusual drought.

The reasonable expectation in 1935, therefore, is normal or near normal corn yields. This fact has an important bearing on corn planting intentions for the coming spring. Material adjustments in cattle and hog numbers since a year ago have lowered corn requirements to such an extent that even the average acreage of recent years would produce, at normal yields, a burdensome surplus of corn.

Under the 1935 production adjustment contract, being offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, corn-hog farmers will have an opportunity to control corn acreage in keeping with these reduced requirements and the expectation of a normal yield per acre.

MISSIONARY TO SPEAK IN CITY

Rev. C. W. Oberdorfer, a missionary to India and his two daughters, Ruth, 14, and Margaret, 11, will be guests of Trinity Lutheran church Sunday.

Both daughters, who were born and reared in India, will give talks on the "Home Life and School System in India" at the Sunday school services at 9 a. m. The talks will be followed by a discussion on India, conducted by Rev. Oberdorfer. An opportunity will be given everybody attending these services to ask any questions pertaining to the work of the missionary in India.

Rev. Oberdorfer and his older daughter will conduct similar services at 10:30 a. m. at the Ringbold Lutheran church and he and his younger daughter will visit Christ Lutheran church at Lick Run at 2:30 p. m. and conduct a discussion.

Services at Trinity Lutheran church at 7 p. m. will be in charge of the India missionary, who is home on furlough visiting his parents in Lancaster.

BEVIS CONSIDERS HARVARD POSITION

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Howard L. Bevis, Marti L. Davey's choice for director of finance in his cabinet, is considering a position in an eastern university, it was reliably reported here today. Bevis is a former supreme court judge having been appointed by Governor White. The eastern offer is reported from Harvard university being the professorship of business administration.

WEAK AND SKINNY MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Saved by new Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil in tasteless tablets.

Pounds of firm healthy flesh instead of large aching bones! New vigor, vim and energy instead of tired listlessness! Steady, quiet nerves! That is what thousands of people are getting through scientists' latest discovery—the Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil concentrated in little sugar-coated tablets without any of its hybrid, fishy taste or smell.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, they're called, "Cod Liver Oil in Tablets," and they simply work wonders. A little boy of 3, acridly sick, got well and gained 10 1/2 lbs. in just one month. A girl of thirteen after the same disease, gained 3 lbs. the first week and 2 lbs. each week after. A young mother who could not eat or sleep after baby came got all her health back and gained 10 lbs. in less than a month.

You simply must try McCoy's at once. Remember if you don't gain at least 3 lbs. of firm healthy flesh in a month get your money back. Demand and get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Refuse all substitutes. Insist on the original McCoy's—there are none better.

How not to LIGHT A BRIDGE TABLE

Think of trying to play bridge by the light of two candles, stuck in bottle tops. Yet that is the equivalent of the light in many homes—a level of illumination that will make any party drag.

For gayer, livelier parties, use an indirect portable lamp. It provides the ideal light—shadowless and glareless—for playing bridge and other games in comfort... and an equally efficient light for a quiet evening of reading. Your dealer will gladly show you the newest style in indirect portable lamps.

PATTERN 9181

Pretty, practical and very easy to make is the house frock sketch today. The body of the design is cut in just four pieces—the back, the front and the sleeves. So you see it's just the type of frock for the busy housewife who is looking for a design that can be made quickly and that will look well when it is finished. The pretty little puffed sleeves add a pretty feminine touch to the whole affair.

The half belted waistline is not only smart but slenderizing, too—and the patch pocket is very simple to apply and very convenient as well. Use any inexpensive cotton fabric for this pattern.

Pattern 9181 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34 and 36. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Do not miss our WINTER PATTERN BOOK of smart, easy-to-make clothes designed by our style authority, MARIAN MARTIN. Styles for every age and all occasions. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

HOUSING PLAN IS UNDER WAY IN 48 PLACES

Progress Being Made in Setting Up Committees; A. L. Guckert Is In Charge.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Completion of organization of committees in 48 communities of the Federal Housing Administration's southern Ohio district is announced by A. L. Guckert, associate director of the district, with headquarters in Columbus. Rapid progress is being made in setting up committees in other communities to direct the national government's campaign to stimulate building improvements and create employment opportunities.

Thus far FHA committees in the southern Ohio district have induced property owners to do modernization and repair work on homes and other buildings requiring a total expenditure of $1,629,992.97, Guckert reported. The estimated number of men given employment through this created work is 500 and the number of men given jobs that took them off relief rolls is placed at 200.

$9 UNDER WAY
Surveys are under way in 39 communities to list property improvement needs on which owners are willing to spend cash or money borrowed under the Federal Housing Act. Expansion of these surveys and freeing of credit through the Housing Act are expected to provide work for many thousands of men and distribute many millions of dollars in new payrolls.

"Early response to the campaign in urban communities and rural areas of Ohio points to wide public interest in its major purposes—the improvement of property, the creation of jobs for building and equipment workers and increasing the demand for construction materials," Guckert commented.

"To take advantage of the Federal installment borrowing plan, any property owner may apply to a bank, building and loan association or other financial institution authorized to make loans under the Housing Act.

"Modernization loans may be obtained for the purpose of repairing, altering or improving a home or other property in cities or on farms. From $100 to $2,000 may be borrowed. Loans can be repaid in from one to five years in monthly installments or, in the case of farmers, when seasonal income is received."

Year's night, after spending her Christmas vacation with her home folks.

Denny Boucher and Weldon Hill expect to enter the Office Training school in Columbus, Jan. 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Bell and son, Kenneth, and grand-daughter, Virginia, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Florence of near Circleville, last Sunday.

Mrs. James Wolford and daughter Eloise and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Florence attended the funeral Sunday of Rev. S. W. Hiles at Logan.

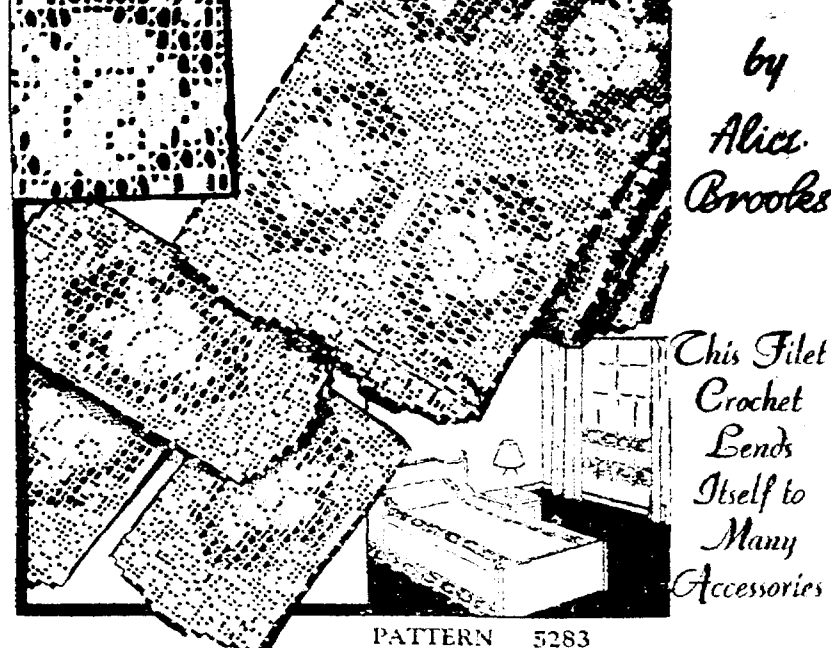

The C. E. society had a taffy pulling New Year's eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Florence, which was enjoyed by all who attended.

Filet crochet—what handsome bedroom or dining room linens this pattern will make! The simple rose design is effectively set off by the open meshes of the K stitch. You will find a design for a band that will make a handsome insertion as well as edging on curtains and bedspreads, smaller arrangements of the same design for vanity, buffet, or chair back sets as well as an arrangement of double bands that will make handsome scarfs. They are all to be crocheted of string making a 6 1/2 inch band. Of course, you can use a finer thread and get a narrower banding or edging that will do very well on pillow cases, towels and other small household linens. The pattern offers an unusual opportunity of making handsome curtains for your entire house at little cost.

WHAT'S THE REMEDY

WATCHING a traffic jam on West Main-st one afternoon this week was an interesting experience for quite a number of spectators. The usual parking spaces were filled, double parking on both sides of the street in evidence, in addition to two large trucks from which merchandise was being unloaded. The traffic lane was narrowed to a width of about eight feet, and two lady drivers approached the narrow opening from opposite directions at the same time. The result was that one of them suffered the humiliation of having to reverse her car and get out of the way—or traffic would have been tied up the remainder of the week.

And at the same time there were two or three motorists who were tearing their hair because they couldn't get their cars away from the curb, due to the practice of double parking.

As long as this condition of affairs is tolerated the more serious and hazardous it will become. It must be somebody's job to provide the remedy.

HIGH SCHOOL OF FUTURE

THE question what form high school will take in the next few years will be in the minds of educators as they celebrate the 300th anniversary of the founding of American secondary schools. The modern high school is a far cry from Boston's Latin Grammar School, the founding of which in April, 1635, is the basis of the celebration, but the next steps in the series of evolutionary changes probably will mark far greater departures.

The unemployed youth of the nation is forcing, all unwittingly, a decision as to new interpretations of public responsibilities in the higher education field. Progressive educators have been urging for years that there be greater differentiation in secondary educational courses, but traditions have lingered. Nor is this wholly regrettable, for too often the revolution in his haste to rear the superstructure slights the foundation, hastily scrapping that laid before his coming.

The facts that industry is foregoing, under pressure, the immature worker, and that legislation is likely to justify such usage, point to a change so obvious that defense of new education aims will to many be the easy and natural course. However, the adherent to tradition must still be an active partner, if no longer a dictator, in shaping the new policies.

There must be in the great rejuvenation of education no forgotten group of youth. Not every child who comes into the modern world is destined for industry. Not every child is gifted only in the direction of the manual arts. Not all are fitted only to be followers, and leaders will still be needed.

If, until recently, the unacademically minded child has not had quite a square deal, neither has the exceptionally bright child, and perhaps the loss to the world at large has been fully as great in the neglect of the latter as in the overlooking of the former.

However great the changes, they should be in the direction of multiplying opportunities to meet needs rather than in grading down standards to accommodate the less capable pupils.

HEALTHY SOLDIERS

THE country will be interested and pleased to learn from the annual report of the surgeon general that the United States army enjoyed more perfect health during the last year than in any similar period of its history.

In certain other respects, however, the army was not so fortunate. Fifty-seven soldiers ended their own lives, while fifty-six were killed in airplane crashes. An even more serious toll resulted from automobile accidents, eighty men having met death from this cause.

In addition, the army's good health and exuberance of spirits were not without their ill effects. Greater participation in athletics resulted in a correspondingly greater number of injuries, 3,876 men having received injuries of one sort or another from accidents during games, with baseball causing a third of all mishaps.

However, the really important thing is that the army is, on the whole, in the best of health and, in consequence, is working and playing harder.

Recent developments on the Pacific insular paradise suggest that, despite the great blessing of no taxes, life on a remote island has its unpleasant phases.

An inventor is putting a practically unbreakable china on the market. A large part of the joy will automatically go out of the life of the average toddling youngster, who gets so much pleasure out of the crash of a falling plate.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

Little Sister

by MARGARET WIDDERMER

READ THIS FIRST:

After reading a letter from her reckless young sister, Lella, announcing her proposed elopement with a carpenter, Lella Madison rushes to New York town to her suburban home where she lives with her Aunt Minnie. This sister and orphan and members of an old Westchester family. Arriving at her sister's apartment, Lella, who virtually is engaged to Orton Johnston-Hedges, her aristocratic neighbor, runs into Jerry Richmond, the too, as a roommate at Yale, the brother of Lella's fiancé, is striving to halt the elopement. Jerry says the prospective bridegroom is Addison Huntington, a romantic radical, now parading as Stark Freeman. Lella and Jerry find Bet and her roommate, Edna, waiting for Addison. He arrives at a moment later. Jerry tells Addison the police want to question him about an acquaintance of his named Jarecki so they disguise Addison in girl's clothes. The police arrive and promise to return when they cannot find Stark Freeman, one remaining on guard outside the apartment. Jerry explains why he is trying to save Addison from the police. When the police return, they are all released after Jerry identifies the group. All except Edna motor to Lella's home and there Aunt Minnie, who is having tea with Mrs. Johnston-Hedges and Orton, meets Jerry and Addison who now has removed his feminine disguise. A policeman gives them all a scare when he arrives to register a neighbor's complaint about Lella's dog barking too much.

"ADDISON inherits his strength of character from his father," Jerry was saying blandly to Mrs. Johnston-Hedges, while Addison glared at him across Bet. "You have, of course, heard of the magnificent way Mr. Hargess Huntington, of Cleveland, has handled his interests through the depression. You may even have listened in on his series of talks, 'Firmness in Our Present Crisis' on the radio."

Bet stared at Addison, aghast at this confirmation of her worst fears about Addison's background. "I have," said Mrs. Johnston-Hedges in deep-voiced approval. "One of our representative citizens. I once met his sister-in-law, Miss Dealings with his employees showed both intelligence and financial wisdom."

"I am not in the least like my father. I do not hold with his ideas," Addison was beginning to say stily.

(Jerry interrupted in a loud voice, drowning out the end of the sentence. "Now, Addison, don't be modest. Remember what I told you on the way out," he grinned. For so young a man, Lella thought, Jerry Richmond did not altogether too much pleasure out of other people's follies.

"A wonderful man," Mrs. Johnston-Hedges continued. "A father, if one may say so, to his workmen. And makes a fine car. You know his folks, don't you remember, Minnie?" "Oh, yes," said Miss Minnie. "At least, almost all of them. There's such a nice little quartet of old-fashioned times that sometimes is on the same hour."

Her neck apology was cut short by her friends' booming out: "It will be a privilege, I am sure, to know his son better. A friend of our little Betty's, I gather?" Bet had never been "our little Betty" before she had been one of the worst examples of the age, when ever Lella's probable mother-in-law mentioned her. And now Mrs. Johnston-Hedges was being arch about her! Both Bet and Lella glanced across in surprise. And to Lella's still further surprise, Bet, whose pleasure had been in seeing the lady for years past, said sweetly, "We are more than friends!" Which was not shocking at all, considering Bet.

Mrs. Johnston-Hedges beamed. As for Aunt Minnie, she looked as if she were about to say, "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace!" For three or four years now it had been increasingly evident in upon Aunt Minnie, who still held the idea that marriage was the only thing for any girl, that Bet, for all her hard-working improprieties, was not attractive to gentlemen. And here, on the horizon—nay, in the actual house itself—was a gentleman. A gentleman who by his father's reputation was as eligible as Orton. A gentleman who regarded Bet and was regarded by her with possessiveness and affection. Unknowing of Addison's illegal intentions, unknowing of the fact that he and his father had dined with each other as definitely as any two people can, the elder ladies beamed.

Bet took another drink and crossed her legs high. Both these modest efforts at being wild had excited her aunt and her aunt's friend very much from time to time. But in the light of Bet's status, uncontradicted by Addison, they simply didn't care. She and the son of Hargess Huntington, of Cleveland were more than friends!

"Ah, youth is indeed the time for mating, Bessie dear," said Mrs.

Johnston-Hedges. "And now I must go. I rely on you, dear Minnie, to canvass the list of ladies I have left with you." She made the rest of her adieu, she swept away, a tailor-made galleon. Aunt Minnie also rose.

"You gentlemen are staying the night, of course?" she said avidly. "If you'll excuse me, I'll go see to things. Lella, darling, if you'll come out to the kitchen in about five minutes..."

She trotted off, delight at the possession of males to serve written all over her. "Is that true?" asked Lella of Jerry in a low voice. She was mortal. She couldn't help hoping that Addison might be reconciled to this excellent type of father and wish to marry Bet legally.

"You mean, that he's Hargess Huntington's son?" Yes. As like the old man as two peas, and therefore irreconcilable—always has been. I think he was always jealous of poor old Jim. And there's another boy, Hargess junior, who's always got on with the old man—nice chap enough, too. But if you would ask me, being a prudent elder sister, if there's any chance of a fatted calf [Jerry knew too much!] I would reluctantly say No. You see, Addison got into a rather prominent bit of trouble at Yale, denounced his father in all the papers, all that; and automobile manufacturers have been denounced by their young. Addison followed it up by a renunciation of papa and all his works, motor and otherwise. And papa followed that up by quite as public, though a more dignified, renunciation of Addison. Huntington senior had stood a lot before that. No, they're washed up for life. The crowning blow was when Addison sent all the money his mother left him to the Soviet. Fatted calves only occur in burlesque shows and the works of E. Phillips Oppenheim, dear Lella. He's just one of those members of rich families that rich families try successfully to forget and make everybody else forget."

"What are you talking about?" Bet asked. "The fact that your aunt will be disappointed when she learns that Addison and his father aren't friends. And that if Addison wants to keep on of jail he'd better keep her from disappointment, over this evening. She's a grand old lady, Addison, you owe it to her to keep her happy."

"I would do more than that to keep her happy," Addison said with obvious sincerity.

"Isn't she a lamb?" said Jerry. "If I had an aunt like that you wouldn't catch me going off and living my own life in New York, Bet. I'd stay around and bask in her."

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Once again the screen turns to the seas and islands for romance and adventure, for here we have all the elements for picture appeal.

When you see "Red Morning" at the Cliftona Theatre, Saturday, do not expect the conventional island story, because this unique film, deparis from conventional toings and offers many thrills and surprises which certainly are not expected.

Marvelous photography and native scenes as well as battles between sea monsters, lend excitement to the romantic adventures of Steffi Duna and Regis Toomey. Incidentally, Miss Duna was the star of "La Cucaracha" which played the Cliftona New Year's day.

AT THE GRAND

Glenda Farrell, who has the leading feminine role in the Warner Bros. picture, "The Personality Kid," now showing at the Grand Theatre, is undoubtedly Hollywood's champion "don't" girl. She doesn't drive a car. She doesn't play tennis. She doesn't play bridge. She doesn't care for swimming. She doesn't like night clubs. She doesn't diet. She doesn't take special exercises. In fact, to be more grammatical, she doesn't care for any of the things that other movie stars profess to love. Golf leaves her cold. Parties annoy her.

"The Personality Kid" is the story of a second-rate prize-fighter with a swelled head and a roving eye for feminine pulchritude whose wife sticks by him through all his defections. Others in the cast include Pat O'Brien, Claire Dodd, Henry O'Neill, Robert Gleckler, Thomas Jackson, Arthur Vinton and others.

"Pyelitis" Is A Common Disorder

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

LIKE OTHER organs in the body the kidney is subject to congestion, inflammation and infections. Since this is a vital organ prompt attention to any disorder is essential to the health of the body. No matter how trivial the trouble may appear to you do not ignore it.

Dr. Copeland

The kidney is made up of numerous tubules which secrete urine. The fluid drops into the cone-shaped interior portion of the kidney, known as the pelvis. From the pelvis it is carried to the bladder through a long tube known as the "ureter." "Pyelitis" is one of the most common diseases of the kidney. As its name implies, it is an infection of the pelvic portion of the kidney. Infection of the kidney pelvis can usually be traced to some obstruction to the urinary outflow. This obstruction may be in the bladder, at the outlet of the bladder, in the ureter, or in the pelvis itself.

Common in Children— The disorder is more frequently encountered in children. It is often overlooked or is confused with some minor disturbance. Sufferers from pyelitis usually complain of high fever, chills and restlessness. They are likely to be pale in complexion. Sometimes there is pain in the region of the affected kidney but as a rule pain is absent. Digestive disturbances, such as nausea, vomiting, loss of appetite and constipation, are other symptoms.

In adults the symptoms are more mild. On this account the disease may be overlooked for years and is only recognized upon routine examination of the urine. The victim may have no fever, pain or discomfort and only complain of loss of "pep" and energy. When the urine is examined it is found to contain an excessive quantity of pus cells. As a rule the amount of urine secreted is diminished.

As I have implied, neglect of this disorder may lead to serious injury to the kidney and bladder. If the infection is allowed to exist for a long time the kidney may become so damaged as to be unable to do its work.

I would advise the pyelitis patient to consult with a physician. He will prescribe the necessary medication. During an acute attack it is best to remain in bed. Large quantities of water by mouth are useful. The diet should consist of nonirritating but nourishing food.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. P. J. Q.—What can be done to prevent grinding of the teeth (in children) at night? What causes this annoyance?
A.—This is often an indication of intestinal worms. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

"16". Q.—Kindly advise me how to sleep normally. I'm unable to rest at night.

A.—It is first most essential to determine the underlying cause of the trouble. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Thurn Answers Some Questions Sent Into Her At the Cooking School

Dear Friends in Circleville: There are so many questions asked at the Cooking School which cannot be answered during the three sessions, that I find it a good plan to keep a little notebook of inquiries and to refer to it week by week. Looking over it for this week's letter to you, I find these, below, unanswered, and some of them are pretty distressing to a good housekeeper! Especially this first one:

What can I use to clean aluminum pots easily when they are quite discolored and dirty. Now if my questioner means when they are rusty and black, dented and brown-stained from long weeks of careless cleaning, I want to administer a scolding right here. Aluminum is a wonder metal, one of the products of the modern age, given to us by modern industry, making a light-weight, easily cleaned, durable, serviceable utensil. And it deserves the best of care, as does any other of our household tools. It needs careful cleaning after each use, and if it is stained black and badly discolored, then this condition shows that it has been put in the dishwasher, it has been given a lick and a promise, and then was dried on a towel which must have suffered too.

TO Clean Aluminum

Aluminum in that condition, first, should be washed in hot soapy water; then scrubbed with the combination steel wool and special soap sold everywhere for this metal. This removes the imbedded stain as well as the surface black. Then rinse in clear hot water. If it is still stained, boil in water containing a little lemon juice or vinegar and see it brighten at once. Then wash as usual in hot, soapy water, and rinse in clear hot water. Dry on a clean towel. Give it this treatment every time it is used.

Another reader says: If I use lemon juice on meat when searing it, my husband says it makes the meat taste sour. What amount should be used?

None need be used if the flavor of lemon is objectionable. Why not try it this way: broil the steak and serve it with hot melted butter in which there are a few drops of lemon juice; or if you prefer to a roast, omit lemon entirely, simply rub the meat with salt and pepper, then dredge with flour, then sear in the hot oven.

Another reader asks: Please tell us how to cut fancy vegetables for salads, garnishes and other uses.

To describe such a process using the usual kitchen tools is out of the question. But almost all cutlery departments in the stores and hardware shops carry special vegetable cutters. These usually come in a set, packaged with directions for use. I suggest that one such a tool, or a set of tools be purchased. In the large cities, at the cutlery section in the house furnishings departments, there are usually demonstrations of these tools. Step up and watch the demonstrator, then with the new set in your own kitchen, see what triumphs of vegetable sculpture are possible. The child who won't eat carrots may sometimes be tempted with this vegetable when cut with fancy cutters.

What is an Entree?

I quote from a book on entrees, the author an accomplished cook and menu maker: In the modern menu the characteristics of the entree are somewhat changed. Up to within the last ten years, perhaps even a shorter time an entree, or side dish, was thought of principally as a dish served between or in conjunction with the main course of the dinner; but now the entree may supplant these dishes and so may be called the main dish or in a large dinner, it may be the fish which precedes the meat or fowl course.

An entree, for common usage, is a "main" dish of chicken, fish, or fowl, or any small meat dish such as sautéed slices of veal (but not a roast of veal); dishes of eggs, fresh vegetables, mushrooms, asparagus, fritters, delicate in nature; or with an unusual sauce; and being less bulky and less obviously "main dish" than for instance a roast, yet by its nature combining enough foods to serve as a nourishing, substantial dish. If placed on a large menu, then it may return to its original character, and be an entree between first course and main course; for instance delicate slices of fish in an unusual sauce; or omelet and mushrooms; or breast of chicken in a sauce.

No Broiler

If one has no broiler, how does one prepare steaks, and chops so they are as digestible as broiled meats?

Pan broiling is a favorite method of meat preparation, and is simple, resulting in delicious as well as digestible meat. For chops simply place them in a sizzling hot skillet, sear quickly on both sides, when brown reduce the heat and cook at a lower temperature until done. Do not cover and do not add water to the skillet. Season the chops with salt and pepper and spread with butter when ready to serve.

Steak is pan broiled the same way, although a skillet-cooked steak which is preferred by many is the Swiss steak method. Use two and one half pounds of steak, cut one inch thick; one half cup flour; two teaspoons salt; one half teaspoon pepper; one medium sized onion; or half medium sized green pepper. Sprinkle the meat with one fourth cup flour and seasoning. Pound this into the meat with a meat hammer or the edge of a thick plate. Turn the meat and repeat on the other side. Brown on both sides in hot drippings in a heavy skillet. Add one cup of water, cover tightly and cook slowly on top of the stove for one hour. If necessary add more water while cooking. Serves five or six.

What is the difference in the method of preparing these two dishes: au gratin and casserole. Au gratin is anything heated in the oven under a cream sauce and crumbs, with or without cheese added to the crumbs. It usually applies to twice-cooked dishes, for instance to make potatoes au gratin, use boiled potatoes, then cut them in cubes, place in a shallow baking dish, cover with white sauce and crumbs, and add cheese or not. Heat in moderate oven, 375 degrees F., until the crumbs are delicately brown.

A casserole is a deep baking dish of glass or earthenware; any oven method of cooking may be followed in it, with or without cream and crumbs; or the casserole of vegetables, for instance, may be au gratin, by having a cream sauce and crumbs and cheese added.

Butterfly Train

A butterfly train of pleated taffeta overlaid with embroidered black net is the very distinguished feature of this formal dress worn by Phyllis Brooks, a new name in screen circles, but well known as a poster model. Halter neck with lace pleatings and draped bodice are other style features of this dress.

CREAMED CHICKEN AND OYSTERS

One cup milk; one cup cream; two cups diced chicken; one pint oyster; one fourth cup butter; one fourth cup flour; one half teaspoon salt; one half cup finely chopped celery. Melt the butter, add the flour, and seasonings and stir until well blended. Add milk and cream slowly, stirring constantly until thick. Boil one minute. Add chicken and oysters and cook until the oysters are plump. Add celery and serve on toast.

Good Welsh Rarebit

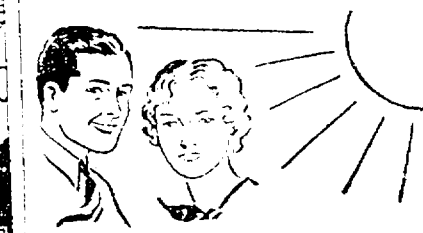

One pound American cheese; one tablespoon butter; two teaspoons salt; two teaspoons dry mustard; one teaspoon paprika; one can tomato soup; toast. Shred the cheese with a fork, or put through the grinder. Melt the butter, stir in the seasoning, add cheese and let heat over a low flame until the cheese is melted. Stir in the tomato soup undiluted of course, and cook gradually. Do not stir all the time; let heat through stir once over the toast. Does not string.

Stuffed Eggs

Six hard cooked eggs; one tablespoon vinegar; one half tablespoon salad oil; two tablespoons deviled ham; or one tablespoon anchovy paste; one half teaspoon mustard; one half teaspoon sugar; pepper, salt, paprika. Cut the eggs in halves crosswise; remove the yolks and mash; add the other ingredients; mixing the seasonings together before adding. Refill the whites and arrange on lettuce leaves. A curled anchovy on each half is decorative and good.

Designating Labor Day

On June 28, 1904, President Cleveland approved a bill designating the first Monday of September in each year, the day celebrated and known as labor's holiday. A legal public holiday to all intents and purposes as Christmas, the first day of January, the 22nd day of February, the 30th of May and the Fourth of July are now made by law public holidays.

Brighten up with
ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

This ailment may cause headaches and loss of energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's All-Bran provides "bulk" to aid elimination. All-Bran also furnishes vitamin B and food-iron.

The "bulk" in All-Bran resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle—and often more effective. Eat this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful!

Two table-spoonfuls of All-Bran daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with All-Bran! Get the red and green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MONROE-TWP

The community was shocked to hear of the tragic death of Rex Grabbil Friday morning. He lived about two hours after being struck by a coal truck. He was taken to the Irwin office in Mt. Sterling and then on to Grant hospital where he died as they got him there. Funeral services were held from the home Sunday afternoon. It was said to be the largest attended funeral held for sometime. Rev. Ewing of Mt. Sterling had charge of the services. Mrs. Jennie Dick, Mrs. Cora Winfough, Mrs. John Porter and Robert Walters sang "Going Down the Valley" and "Sometime We'll Understand" and "Good Night and Good Morning."

Funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. Walters, Darrell Hatfield, Joseph Walters, Carl Haller, Johnny Ralph Dovens and Francis Dovens. Burial was in Darbyville cemetery. The Farmers Institute will be held at the school building Friday and Saturday of this week. Cash prizes will be given for the domestic show. The state is sending two good speakers and the school will furnish the music of Friday. Under the supervision of Miss Anna Foster, the Sidalia orchestra will furnish the music for Saturday. Mrs. Ansel Crowder is president of the P. T. A. meeting this month has been postponed until Thursday evening.

DICK MELSON MAY START AT CENTER POST

Circleville Centers Have Made 34 Points Against 61 For Their Opponents.

Dick Melson, junior center who has been starting at the reserve team, may get his chance to make good at Delaware on the varsity tonight at the tip-off spot. It is reported plans of Coach Pete Herberholz are true.

Melson has been doing a swell job in the pivot position against all opponents this year and has been a big factor in the success of that team which is comprised entirely of juniors.

If the tall blonde were the nod the first team will probably find Melson a worthy replacement for the departed John Jenkins and Spackman at the guards. It is possible Henry may be found at a guard with John Jenkins with Styers taking the other forward with Kirwin.

If Melson goes to center both Joe Jenkins and Grant will find seats on the bench where they have been alternating.

GOOD AT DEFENSE

Melson's defensive ability is much more versatile than either Jenkins or Grant. His offensive may not be quite so strong as Grant's, however, but is better than Jenkins'. In seven games played to date Grant started at center in four and Jenkins in three. Grant has scored an aggregate of 19 points and Jenkins 15, their totals making the average of points per game scored by the Circleville center less than five points.

Then let us turn to the opposing center. Draudt of Academy scored six, Burkov of Groveport four, Cox of Chillicothe 12, Peterson and Meadows of London two, Christy of Amanda seven, Ballinger of Westerville 12, and Seales of A. Hille 18. The total points scored against Circleville's two centers has been 61.

The comparative scores show that Coach Herberholz can afford to experiment with his centers. The reserves do not play at Delaware. The game will be officiated by Dave Parks and Bus McMillen.

SOLEM TO ACCEPT WILDCAT OFFER?

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 11.—Ole Solom, the University of Iowa football mentor, is the first choice of Athletic Director Kenneth L. Wilson to succeed Dick Hanley as head coach at Northwestern university, according to persistent reports today.

The same reports had it that Solom will eventually be signed to a contract at Northwestern this winter. Wilson and Solom are scheduled to meet here tomorrow for a discussion of terms.

When Hanley announced his resignation it was reported the Northwestern coach would go to Iowa and Solom would transfer his coaching duties to Northwestern, but authorities at both institutions denied the change was contemplated.

DON MILLER QUILTS LOUISVILLE SCHOOL

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—Don Miller, one of Notre Dame's famous four horsemen, will not return to Louisville, Ky., as football coach of the St. Xavier high school next fall.

Miller announced he had resigned the football post because of the press of duties in his law business. He is associated here with his brother Ray, Miller, former mayor of Cleveland.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

NIL ON MARIIN

Bob Hooley, Journal sports editor, has come forward with what he thinks will be the possible opening lineup for the Columbus Red Birds in the spring. In most places we agree with him but in others, No. One of the spots is shortstop where we hope Hooley is wrong. Young Stu Martin might be a good class 12 shortstop but we can't see him in the AA.

It is doubtful if he can hit the pace and it is also doubtful if he can field the pace.

RIGHT HANDED TRIP

First second and third bases look okay with Hurst, Styers and Belker handling them. In our estimation a shortstop is needed. Then we turn to the outfield where Hooley lists three right handed hitters, Cullop, Pullin and Piel. It just doesn't click that Cullop should have three who hit to the left field side of the ball park when the right field fence is so much closer to the home plate. How about Gene Moore, or how about going after Estel Crabtree now with Rochester.

WHAT A MONICKER

The battery, well, anyone with the name Ogradowski should be able to do something, but we doubt if he will be behind the plate when the season opens. Ed Greer may be all right as the starting hurler; there are many other we'd rather see on the hill.

STANFORD TO EAST

Stanford's football team, defeated by Alabama in a great Rose Bowl game, is seeking a game in the east for next season. Such a contest would certainly be money in the pocket of the school fortunate enough to book the Indians.

HUGE CROWD TO WATCH CHOPPER

With interest increasing every day among wood-choppers, farm folks and others, the appearance here next Monday at 11 o'clock a. m. of Peter McLaren is expected to draw a large crowd.

Billed as the world's greatest wood chopper, McLaren will pit his ability against all comers in chopping a log in two, each contestant cutting against time. A large cash prize is offered to anyone who can do the feat in not over 50 per cent more time than it takes McLaren.

Barrere-Nickerson, local hardware dealers, in cooperation with a nationally known axe manufacturer, is sponsoring McLaren's visit and he will appear in front of that local store for his exhibition. According to Joe Lynch, manager of the store, several aspiring wood choppers have challenged the champion.

Boy scouts of the city will be dismissed from school Monday to take part in the program. It will be necessary for them to have excuses signed by their parents to present to their teachers.

BUCK MERMEN PREP FOR PITT CONTEST

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Murdured by the toughest competition the East had to offer, Ohio State swimmers will spend the next three weeks preparing for a conquest of conference foes.

The first collegiate meet will be held the afternoon of January 23 against the University of Cincinnati in the Queen City pool, but the real test of the preconference season comes when the Bucks meet Pittsburgh here Feb. 2.

The Pittsburgh squad is the holder of the eastern conference title and is rated as one of the best balanced teams in the country. In the past years Ohio has won one and lost one meet to its Pennsylvania rival.

LOUIS READY FOR GERMAN BATTLER

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11.—Joe Louis, colored Detroit heavyweight, was ready today for his meeting with Hans Birkie, the German-American fighter, here tonight.

The sensational Louis, who has been undefeated in his 13 fights as a professional, was a heavy favorite to defeat the veteran Birkie. They will fight 10 rounds.

Leading Louis and Birkie tapered off their training preparations in local gymnasiums. The Detroit fighter, in perfect physical condition, is expected to weigh in at about 195 pounds, while Birkie will weigh a few pounds less than that.

COUNTY 5S SPLIT

Washington and Sallertek-tyep cage teams split a twin bill Thursday evening on the Washington-Tyep court. The home girls won, 26-22 in a thrilling game which saw both teams tied at the half, 14-14. The Sallertek boys, however, put on a steady blast of speed to lead 18-6 at the half and 31-12 at the close of the game. Johnny Heiskell refereed.

Buckeyes Taper For Illini Tilt

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Tapering off with a light but snappy drill Ohio State university basketball players today concluded preparations for the opening game of the Big Ten season at home with Illinois here tomorrow night.

Beaten 32 to 21 by Iowa and victorious in an overtime match with Michigan, the game with Illinois was considered vital to the competitive standing of the Buckys by either putting them above or below the 500 mark.

REYNOLDS IS FRIGHTENED The Buckys will face a scoring threat in the Illinois squad in the form of Jack Reynolds, gridiron star who last year contributed to the solitary one-point defeat that Ohio State suffered in its entire football schedule.

Illinois, although liked by Indiana, came back last week to pull a surprise victory out of the fire in the game with Purdue.

Couch Harold Olson, not yet certain of the Buck line up, was believed to be contemplating some changes in the starting list of forwards in an effort to provide a scoring punch handicapped by the lack of a full center.

By International News Service Ohio college basketball teams will be as busy as the proverbial bees tonight as the heavy weekend schedule is played off on the hardwood courts.

As a preliminary to the hostilities, two Ohio conference games were staged last night. Denison beat Wooster, the conference football leaders, 37 to 25 and Ashland turned in a fine trick by conquering Kenyon, 52 to 38.

GO TO MAINEHALL Interest in the week-end schedule is focused on the Illinois-Ohio State clash at Columbus and on horse contenders for the Buckeye conference tilt at Huntington, W. Va.

If Marshall loses to the Bearcats, the basketball season in the state probably will evolve into a game of "who can stop the Bearcats."

Cincinnati looks as the best horse contenders for the Buckeye leadership and it is undefeated this season.

WHITE LISTS NEW EXPENSE

Says Davey Wanted Additional Appropriation For Remodeling Office.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11. With an interesting fight looming in the Ohio house of representatives over an $8,000 appropriation for Governor Martin L. Davey's inauguration, Governor White revealed today that he had refused a request from Davey for $12,000 to re-furnish and re-decorate the executive offices.

It cost White $37,223 to run the executive offices last year, he said. Allowing for salary increases in 1935 because of expansion of the state economy, he estimated it would cost $41,300 to operate the office this year.

On these figures White based the sum requested in the partial appropriation bill for executive office maintenance for the first six months of 1935, he explained.

Davey, he said, wanted $9,000 more than his own budget allowed for ordinary office operating expenses, or about $50,000. This, with the requested $12,000 for renovation and re-decoration would have cost the state $62,000 during Davey's first year in office.

SCOUT LEADERS IN CONFERENCE ON TWO DATES

Many special features are promised as well as a new Camp Manual at the Scout Leaders' Camp Conference of Pickaway Division, to be held in the basement of the Southern Ohio Electric Co., on Jan. 14 and 21.

All Scout leaders, especially Scoutmasters, are planning to attend this conference, where the plans for the summer Troop Camping in 1935 will be discussed and the preparation of this Camp will be brought out. Special announcements will also be given in regard to the coming National Jamboree to be held at Washington D. C. in the summer of 1935.

As this year is the 25th Anniversary of scouting, all Scout Troops will be trying to have red and out-of-doors activities in the summer of 1935 and each Troop Camp will be known as the Silver Jubilee Troop Camp.

All Scout leaders are invited to attend this meeting as well as any of the public who may be interested. The conference will be conducted by camping experts both locally and from the Staff of the Central Ohio Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

"DISCOMMODE WHITE"

It was stated at the governor's office that Davey had hoped the remodeling might be completed or at least well under way when he takes office next Monday, but the present administration turned down the idea because it might "discommode" Governor White.

Woman Cattle Rustler Lynched

According to records "Cattle Kate" was the only woman in the state of Wyoming who was lynched for cattle rustling.

his home in the Bronx and asked for them.

Reilly, in the matter of the "mystery" of the rest right there. He indicated he would call her to the stand for the defense. A report that she will tell a different story about the ransom receiver, "John" than Condon told on the stand is regarded as fantastic by the prosecution. Meanwhile, Reilly has the court room fans guessing about this woman.

EXPERT ON STAND

Today Albert S. Osborn, noted New York handwriting expert who made a close study of Hauptmann's penmanship and compared it with the penmanship in the ransom notes, took the stand as a key witness for the state. Osborn, including experts to be called including Osborn's son, Albert also, a German ethnologist and a United States government handwriting authority.

The elder Osborn, testifying at the Hauptmann extradition hearing in New York a few months ago, said that in his opinion there is a striking similarity between Hauptmann's penmanship and the writing on the Lindbergh ransom notes. The evidence to this effect, he asserted, is "absolutely overwhelming."

Osborn in his analysis of Hauptmann's handwriting examined the defendant's application for motor vehicle licenses and other specimens and found them similar to the penmanship of the ransom notes.

For example, he noted the misplacement of the letter "H." On one of Hauptmann's applications the word "light" was written l-i-h-t. In one of the ransom notes the word "right" is spelled r-i-n-g-t. The word "the" was written h-t-e another ransom note.

The state's handwriting experts are expected to testify that Hauptmann disguised his handwriting when he allegedly wrote the ransom notes and also when he gave the police in New York city specimens of his handwriting shortly after his arrest last September.

MAY RECALL CONDON

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, heading the prosecution's legal battery, indicated today that Dr. Condon may be recalled as a rebuttal witness. In the opinion of the state's lawyers, "Jasie" proved to be an excellent witness for the state. They insist the shrewd and experienced Reilly failed to break him down on any essential points under cross-examination.

Col. Henry Breckinridge, close friend and adviser of Col. Lindbergh, corroborated Condon's testimony. Breckinridge testified that "Jasie" opposed the payment of any ransom money to the supposed kidnappers of the baby, "except C. D. with the return of the child."

Breckinridge's test move seemed to have the effect of nullifying the efforts of the defense to link Condon in some mysterious manner with the kidnaping plot. In spite of the lengthy and bitter inferential attack Reilly launched at Condon, the elderly Bronx educator stood up well on cross-examination.

"He (Condon) never got a cent for his services," said Breckinridge. "He merely followed instructions from Colonel Lindbergh or myself after he received his first ransom notes in reply to that ad he inserted on his own edition, in a Bronx paper."

Is This Too Good For Your Cough?

Cremolium may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Cremolium for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are dangerous. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)

at the farm or products sold at the stores for resale to consumers. Farmers selling and delivering their own products to consumers must have a vendor's license and collect the tax, just the same as a retail merchant.

Mr. Geissinger stated that the various classifications are being worked out by the tax commission as rapidly as possible and that business groups would be informed through their organizations as to the rules and regulations affecting each particular line of business.

He was emphatic on one point, however, and that is that the sales tax must be collected. The tax commission will be firm and will not permit chiseling. The law has teeth in it and, according to the speaker, the commission is going to make it work.

He told the retailers that records of all transactions must be kept in such a manner that inspectors could readily check up on sales, and that this would be done at regular intervals.

DIRECTORS ELECTED

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Reed Shafer, K. J. Herrmann, Harry Steinhauer, Lawrence Johnson, Frank Lynch, Joseph Burns and D. D. Dowden. The directors expect to hold their organization meeting later in the week.

Mary as "ideal." Until a few years ago there was never a hint the couple was anything but congenial. It was in 1920 the first hint of a rift in the great love at Pickfair, the magnificent estate built by the couple on the hills overlooking Hollywood, came.

"NO CONSIDERATION"

Among other things charged in her divorce complaint, Miss Pickford asserted that Fairbanks "lacked consideration for her feelings and sensibilities."

After a long absence Fairbanks returned to Hollywood last summer. At the time he announced he was "home to stay" and mutual friends felt a reconciliation was at hand. This feeling was strengthened by frequent meetings of the couple.

However, finally, shortly before Christmas Fairbanks again left Hollywood and returned to Europe. Miss Pickford married Fairbanks 26 days after she divorced Owen Moore, her first husband, on March 2, 1920, at Minden, Nev.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11.—Incendiaries were being sought by authorities today as firemen continued to pour water on the charred hulk of an eight-story building in the downtown district, gutted in the most spectacular fire here in many years.

Loss was estimated at $150,000.

room. The jurist sees to it that a wide lane is cleared to the door before ordering the prisoner taken back to jail.

These precautions were not taken at the start of the trial. But Hauptmann looked like a different man then. His inscrutable face showed not a single sign of worry. A vague look of fear began to come over him during the testimony of Dr. John F. (Jasie) Condon, however, and today the prisoner was positively haggard.

Follow the Straight Line

"A straight line is the shortest distance between two points." That holds for any two points—your pocketbook and your list of wants, for example. Follow the straight line, and you'll save yourself time, trouble and money.

Use the advertising columns of this newspaper as guide posts. In them, you find late news of what's to be had in the markets of the world. No need for you to meander about from store to store, comparing, pricing, judging, guessing values. The advertisements tell you the names of merchants and manufacturers you can trust. There you read what's new, what's favored, what's offered confidently for your inspection. The advertisements in this paper take you into more stores than you could visit in a month.

There's no high-pressure selling, no rush, no uncertainty to this daily review of markets. Form the good habit of shopping by the straight line method—you'll buy with assurance, with economy and with satisfaction.
